HIGHWAY ROUTE WILL BE DECIDED BY COMMISSION

Fourteen Men, Two From Each State Which Road Will Traverse, Endowed With Power to Settle All Disputed Points.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS WILL MEET VERY SOON

Federal Bureau of Good Roads Will Be Asked to Supply Three Expert Engineers to Assist in Mapping Out Route.

BY NED MINTOSH.
(Special Staff Correspondent.)

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 4.—(Special.)—Last week the Dixie highway was an imaginative possibility. Today it is a certainty, far-reaching in its ultimate results.

Not in the last decade, in the opinion of leaders of both the south and the west, has a single day's work been of more importance or endowed with more tremendous powers for development and progress than the formation of the plan for the Dixie highway and the perfecting of an organization for its construction, at the governors' conference at Chattanooga on Saturday.

It is in a class with dreams which build empires.

The general plan of the great highway connecting the great lakes and the Florida beaches is now complete and concrete. Only details remain to be worked out. The machinery for working out these details and for proceeding with the actual construction and linking up of the highway is provided and is waiting to be set in motion.

The General Route.

Here is exactly what has been done:

The general route of the highway is settled upon as far as Fort Wayne, Ind., on the Lincoln highway, just outside Chicago, to Indianapolis, southward to Chattanooga, thence to Atlanta and to Macon, to Jacksonville and on southward to Miami, where Miami has promised a magnificent $50,000 arch to mark the southern terminus.

There is no doubt that the highway will touch at all these points named. Just what local routes it will take between these points are details which remain to be worked out, but while they are of tremendous interest to the people living in the immediate territory through which the several proposed local routes run, are not of vital importance to the highway as an entity. This is realized, even by the most self-centered sections for the local routes, and not a better evidence of the broad public spirit which entered into the deliberations of the conference can be found than that these sections were willing to leave the matter of the settlement to a commission and abide by their decision.

This commission will be composed of fourteen men, appointed two by each governor from his respective states through which the highway will pass. These states are seven in number, and are Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida.

Eliminate Partisanship.

All possibility of partisanship in the selection of local routes has been eliminated by the agreement that the men who are appointed from each state shall be endowed with the power of settling alone upon the route, as it passes through their respective states. The detail direction of the entire route is left to the entire commission of fourteen from all seven states to select. Florida state representatives are given as much say as to upon the local direction of the route through Indiana as will the representatives of Indiana, and vice versa. This commission will hold in mind, in settling these questions, only the best results for the entire highway.

As has already been announced, Governor Slaton has appointed Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and W. T. Anderson, editor of The Macon Telegraph, to represent Georgia on the commission.

Carl Fischer Honored.

The only other appointment to this commission, which has so far been announced, is one of Carl Fischer, of Indianapolis, which he announced late Saturday night. His other appointment has not been given out. Mr. Fischer was the originator of the idea of the Trans-Continental Lincoln highway, and was more intimately associated with the success of that highway than anyone else.

His presence upon the board of directors of the Dixie Highway association, especially in view of his wide experience in highway promotion and construction, will be of inestimable value to the Dixie highway.

As soon as the governors have completed their list of appointments of state representatives on the commission, the commission will meet and map out the details of the route which the highway will take.

These state representatives, with the seven incorporators representing the founders of the highway, will form the board of directors, which will meet in the near future and perfect the organization of the Dixie Highway association, electing officers.

Will Be Fifty Founders.

There are now twenty founders of the highway, each guaranteeing the donation of $1,000 per year until the highway is complete. This number will shortly be increased to fifty, which will mean that the highway association will be assured of $50,000 per year as a working basis.

This sum, of course, is much less than will be given by the states and counties in money, work and high roads already constructed.

Kentucky, for instance, as Governor McCreary pointed out at the conference, will spend $600,000 per year on roads in Kentucky, no small amount of which sum will be devoted to the Dixie highway through that state.

Counties all along the route have guaranteed various substantial sums

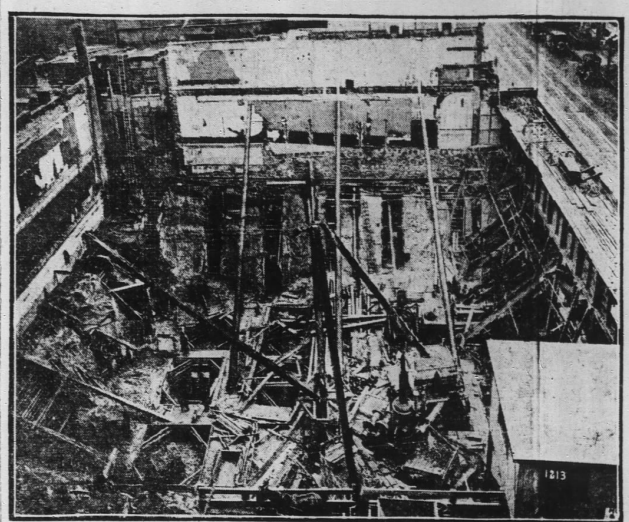
Thirty Feet Below Surface of Whitehall Street Workers Are Paving Way for Great Skyscraper



Excavation work on the new $275,000 Connally building to be erected at the corner of Whitehall and Alabama streets is shown by this picture to be well under way. The large steam pile-driver is seen at work in the center. The photograph is taken from an office on the second floor of the Atlanta National Bank building. The hole is now thirty feet beneath the surface of Whitehall street. Dr. E. L. Connally announces work will soon begin on the structure.

PROFESSOR SLATON PAINFULLY INJURED

Superintendent Bruised in Fall When Horse Shies at a Street Car.

While "Prince," a horse that is well-known to nearly all Atlanta school children, shied at a passing street car, and his hoofs slipped on the pavement, Professor William M. Slaton, superintendent of Atlanta's public schools, was painfully injured in the fall.

The accident occurred about 5 o'clock last night in front of Fire Station No. 2, corner of Moreland and DeKalb avenue, Inman Park.

The well-known Atlanta educator had escaped death by leaping from the horse's back. His head struck the sidewalk curbstone, cutting a deep gash in it, and his left shoulder, arm and hand were badly bruised.

So painful were his injuries that he had to be carried to his home, No. 142 North Jackson street, by the police patrol, which was summoned by Call orderly Sam Ginn, who is stationed on duty at Fire Station No. 32. Other drivers were the first to reach the injured Superintendent.

The family physician, who was summoned to the Slaton residence, stated that Professor Slaton would be all right again within a few days.

Crematory Hearing Costs City $2,100 For Stenographers

Testimony Already Taken Covers 7,000 Typewritten Pages, Costs of Which Will Be Divided Between City and Company.

Up to date the crematory hearing has cost the city $2,100 just for the taking down of evidence.

The hearing has been stopped because of the illness of Frank E. Callaway, master, investigating the case. It will be resumed when Mr. Callaway gets well, and just how much longer it is to last no one, neither the judge nor the lawyers on both sides seem to be able to say.

Some idea can be had of the volume of the evidence already taken when it is stated that over 7,000 typewritten pages are necessary to hold the testimony. This will cost about 60 cents a page, making a total cost to date of $4,200. Mr. Callaway has announced that no matter how the case goes, the costs are to be equally divided between the city and the New York Destructor company that built the crematory.

The company is suing the city for a balance not paid, amounting to over $100,000. The city has refused to pay, alleging that the crematory has not come up to the specifications.

Besides the thousands of dollars already incurred in costs, the case has also cost some of those connected with it very dearly from a physical and nervous standpoint. Mr. Callaway is down with nervous prostration. Councilman Charlie Ashley, who was on the witness stand many days, was prostrated and became seriously ill.

RESOLVED TO DIE, HE SELECTS ROUTE OVER NIAGARA FALLS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., April 4.—An unidentified man climbed over the railing at Prospect Point late today and plunged into the river. A few seconds later he was swept over the falls. No trace of the body has been found.

Fifty persons saw the man take the plunge, but none was near enough to prevent it.

Tribute Is Paid to a "Lost Love" By Telamon Cruger Smith Cuyler In Diary Written After Marriage

Diary Found by Mrs. Cuyler, Who Divorced Atlanta Man, and Is Used by Her in Answer to Cuyler's Suit. Cuyler Mourns "Lost Love," and Says Light of His Life Is Gone.

New York, April 4.—(Special.)—A remarkable tribute to a lost love, written in the diary of Telamon Cruger Smith-Cuyler, cotton broker and self-styled social mentor, several years after he had married Miss Grace Barton, daughter of Mrs. Isabella T. Barton, one of the wealthiest women in Alameda, Cal., is revealed in the answer just filed in the supreme court by Mrs. Cuyler to the suit brought against her for a separation on the ground of abandonment.

Cuyler, who is a son of the late Henry Hunt Smith, one of the best known cotton factors in the south, had his name changed by the Georgia legislature.

His wife, by whom he has two children, left him in 1912 and established her residence in San Francisco, where she brought suit for a divorce. She got an interlocutory decree in September, 1912, but Cuyler then started proceedings to set aside the divorce and the case dragged on until last month, when she got her final decree and the custody of her children. In the meantime Cuyler brought a $500,000 alienation suit against his wealthy mother-in-law, which is still pending.

In her answer, Mrs. Cuyler declares that her husband did not provide for her and their children during the twelve years she lived with him, and that because of heavy losses she sustained in the San Francisco earthquake and fire, she was compelled to accept support from her mother after leaving her husband. She says she went back to her husband five times when he forced his attentions on her.

Caused Her to Become Gray.

Mrs. Cuyler said that her husband's continued course of extreme cruelty and willful neglect caused her to become prematurely gray. She says that when he was with her and her mother in France he annoyed and harassed her by his attentions to a former girl friend from Atlanta, Mrs. Constance Brown, and one day she found him on the beach at Dinard with his head in Mrs. Brown's lap.

Mrs. Cuyler alleges that on the occasion of the funeral ceremonies of King Edward in London, Cuyler flourished a pistol because her mother wouldn't let a personal friend of his occupy a window she had rented from which to view the ceremonies. He once quarreled with her because of the manner their daughter ate soup, and slapped her face in the presence of the butler and servants, she adds.

Mrs. Cuyler said that after she returned from the trip abroad with her mother she found a number of her husband's private letters, and among them the diary in which she discovered that her husband had carried his love of his former fiancee to such an extent that he was writing about her for several years after he was married."

Extract From Love Diary.

"This diary so affected me that I became ill," said Mrs. Cuyler, "because of his references to the "miserable game," and I was never thereafter deceived by his protestations of love."

Mrs. Cuyler asks that her husband's suit be dismissed because he was a party to the California action in which she got her divorce. Before they separated the Cuylers lived at 61 East Seventy-second street.

The following is an extract from the diary of Mr. Cuyler referring to his pale-dime fiancee who married another man:

"My feelings toward her are as fixed as Fate. Nothing will never suffer the slightest deviation throughout time or the sweep of ages, to the end and beyond. I fully realize that I am confessing immortality upon her by this writing. When I see the lost, the wasted past ten years, I mourn the unbegotten posterity of those cursed, hell-born relatives of hers murdered—aye, for gold. The republic is the loser, but that I do? The path is fixed and the light of my poor life is gone out forever and ever. So all that is left for me is to watch the miserable game played to its uttermost conclusion."

CASE OF LEO M. FRANK MAY BE DECIDED TODAY

Generally Believed That U. S. Supreme Court Will Hand Down Opinion.

Washington, April 4.—Many of the seventy-five cases pending before the supreme court are expected to be decided when the court resumes sessions tomorrow after a two weeks' recess devoted to writing opinions.

The case which has been under consideration longest involves the constitutionality of the Oklahoma suffrage grandfather clause case. It also will determine the validity of an Annapolis, Md., law, under which the right of negroes to vote is said to have been and now is restricted. The case has been under consideration by the court since November 11, 1912.

The habeas corpus case of Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, the Atlanta, Ga., factory girl, was not argued until February 15, 1915, but many are looking forward to a decision in the matter.

Another case of importance pending is that involving the constitutionality of the Oregon minimum wage law for women employees.

WEIGHTY PROBLEMS FOR N. Y. CONVENTION

Albany, N. Y., April 4.—Weighty problems face the constitutional convention which will convene here Tuesday. Twenty-one years has elapsed since the last constitution was drawn, since then new questions have arisen and many changes are required. It is expected the convention may sit until fall.

Chief among the issues which probably will be disposed of are: Equal suffrage, old age pensions, home rule for cities, commission form of government, reorganization of the judiciary, conservation of natural resources, simplification of the election system, reduction of the number of elective state officials, short ballot.

Within six weeks after adjournment of the convention any amendments to the present constitution or new constitution must be submitted to a vote of the people. The vote is likely to be taken at the regular fall election. If approved the changes will go into effect January 1 next.

Republicans control the convention, Elihu Root, former United States senator, and a delegate-at-large, probably will be chosen president of the convention.

LOSS OF LIFE FEARED IN TOLEDO HOTEL FIRE

Toledo, Ohio, April 4.—It is believed several persons were burned to death in a fire which early today destroyed the Niagara hotel here. More than 200 guests were in the building and many have not been accounted for.

The body of Mrs. John L. Fryel, of Adrian, Mich., a three-day bride, was recovered today. Her husband is missing.

Vernon Gates and his son, Hal, of Chicago, were burned so badly they are not expected to recover.

DEATH RODE STORM AND TOOK HARVEST OF LIVES AND SHIPS

Steamer Prins Maurits Has Probably Gone to the Bottom Off Hatteras With Crew and Passengers.

TUG LUCKENBACH LOST AND 16 MEN DROWNED

Only Two Members of Tug's Crew Escaped—Ten Lives Lost Off Delaware Capes. Several Wrecks Reported.

New York, April 4.—Fears that the steamer Prins Maurits of the Royal Dutch West Indies commony line, had gone down, possibly with all on board, were expressed tonight in a wireless message received from the steamer Algonquin which yesterday went to the aid of the Prins Maurits, reported in distress off Cape Hatteras.

The message from the Algonquin said the last heard from the Prins Maurits was the words, 'sinking fast.' The Algonquin's message adds:

"No later news was received from her, but all hands are supposed to have perished."

The Algonquin, of the Clyde Steamship company, which is on her way to New York from West Indian ports, sent word that she expected to reach her Monday. The Prins Maurits, which left New York Thursday for West Indian ports, carried only four passengers. She was commanded by Captain H. J. Vandergoot. The steamer is of 1,328 net tonnage, 255 feet long, 35 feet beam and about 20 feet depth. She was built in Hardbirg in 1909.

List of Passengers.

The passengers were Mrs. F. T. Wallace, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. C. Miot, of Haiti, and a Mrs. La Roche, of Wilmington, Del.

Word that the Prins Maurits was in distress came in a wireless message yesterday, supposed to have been relayed by a British cruiser. She reported her attitude and longitude and asked for prompt help.

Several vessels, including the Algonquin and the City of Macon, went to her assistance. No further word came from her or from the steamers that had gone to the rescue until tonight's message.

Tonight's dispatch came from A. A. Boom, traveling inspector of the Royal Dutch West Indies company, aboard the Algonquin, in response to a message of inquiry sent from the company's offices here today. Representatives of the line had nothing to add to the text of the wireless except to state they had little hope of receiving further word from the ship.

The Prins Maurits, officers of the line said, carried a crew of from forty to forty-five men.

Wilmington, Del., April 4.—Mrs. Mary H. Wallace, of this city, was a passenger on the Prins Maurits. She was the only passenger from Wilmington aboard. It was said here that the other three passengers were from Haiti.

Mrs. Wallace was the wife of Howard H. Wallace, a well known and well known horseman. She was on her way to Port-au-Prince to visit a daughter, Mrs. John T. Marsh, of Philadelphia, who is in Haiti with her husband.

LUCKENBACH LOST WITH 16 OF CREW.

Norfolk, Va., April 4.—Sixteen men are believed to have lost their lives when the tug Edward Luckenbach foundered off False Cape, Va., yesterday. Only two men have so far been accounted for, Harry Olsen, first mate, and Charles Sorenson, second officer. Six bodies have washed ashore at False Cape.

The tug struck yesterday morning during the northeast gale which swept this coast for twenty-four hours. The vessel sank in shallow water and drifted back the beach and her crew had no chance to save their lives.

The Luckenbach was bound for Norfolk from New York with three barges in tow, two of which were the Josephus and West Point. She lost her hold in the gale and became unmanageable. But for this accident, he says, the Luckenbach probably would not have been driven ashore.

ANIMALS SLANDERED BY NAMES OF DANCE

"Municipal Hall Would Be Nothing Better Than Licensed House of Prostitution," Says Dr. White, Answering Atkinson.

"Public dance halls are as dark as hell, and I do not see how any man with any regard for public morals can indorse such a thing," declared Dr. J. L. White, in addressing his congregation Sunday night at the Tabernacle Baptist church on "The Ethics of the Dance."

Dr. White declared that the limit had been reached when an Atlanta man had made such a suggestion, and he appealed to his congregation to frown on such a plan.

"It is nothing better than a licensed house of prostitution," said Dr. White. "The Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians don't want it, and they won't have it. Other denominations may establish such an institution, but the good city of Atlanta shall never put its stamp of approval on it."

Recently Dean R. Brumby Atkinson, of St. Philip's cathedral, urged the establishment of a municipal dance hall in Atlanta and it brought forth a storm of protest from several Protestant ministers.

Began in Grog Shop.

"I speak half an hour on a public dance hall in Indianapolis some years ago, and it was enough for me," said Dr. White. "They said when the evolution of the old German round dance began you could put an object three feet wide between the two dancers, but today it is impossible to get a feather between them.

"The German round dance had its origin in a German grog shop, and its successor was prostitution. This dance was too tame, so the grizzly bear, the bunny hug, the turkey trot and others were given to society. It is sinful to name these dances for the old bear, the unprotected rabbit and the innocent turkey.

"The dance, the preacher said, was spoken of in the Scriptures, but in every case the women danced alone. It was not a sort of religious ceremony.

"Dancing in itself cannot be condemned by history or by Scripture, but nowhere did the sexes come together," he said. "The old square dance was not objectionable if danced by the sexes alone.

"If you want to dance, dance alone. If a crowd of young women want to dance, there is no objection to their dancing together, but whoever heard of a group of old bachelors dancing together?

"The modern dance," Dr. White said, "destroys domestic happiness, is dangerous to social purity, takes away the public dance hall, and declared that a Christian would lose his force with the world and his condemnation with his church by following after the modern dance.

"And yet, how can we believe that a man who loves virtue and decency would vote to open the above hell for Atlanta, an institution which in many cases would mean the downfall of from 50 per cent of the fallen women?" he asked.

Will Preach on Baseball.

Dr. White's sermon last night was the first of a series of Sunday night sermons on amusements. Next Sunday night he will preach on "The Ethics of Outdoor Sports," and will state his attitude toward baseball.

On Sunday night, April 18, he will preach on "The Ethics of Motion Pictures," and the concluding sermon of the series will be on Sunday night, April 25, on "The Ethics of Miscellaneous Amusements."

Following the sermon last night Dr. White administered the ordinance of baptism by immersion to a number of new members.

Gen. D'Amade Mourns Son, But Is Proud That He Died As Sacrifice for France

Paris, April 4.—General A. G. L. D'Amade, commander of the French expeditionary forces in Egypt, this month, has lost his youngest son, aged 18, a second lieutenant of infantry. A friend has just received from the general the following letter written while he was on the way to the Dardanelles:

"At Sea, March 31.—Dear Sir: I acknowledge the receipt of your letter of December 28. The cause of the delay is a great misfortune which has come upon us. I have lost my youngest son, Gerard, who had only just been received at St. Cyr in the last promotion of July.

"He fell gloriously for France during a reconnoitering expedition in the Argonne on January 26. Mortally wounded, he fell upon the very trenches of the enemy which he had received instructions to reconnoiter.

"Two German generals who were witnesses of his bravery and courage, wrote to me, expressing unanimously their admiration, and informed me that our poor child had been buried by the enemy in the forest of Argonne.

"I have no need to tell you that it is a great pain, but we could offer to God and to France nothing more beautiful, nothing more pure, nothing more generous than that sacrifice. We are proud of him, but after the war we shall mourn him until death.

"I carry with me in my new mission this pain, engraved deeply in my heart, as an example of courage and as a great reason to hope you may never know the pain that we have suffered."

Austrian Line Broken In Carpathian Passes By Russian Hammer

It Is Officially Announced in Vienna That the Austrian Forces Have Been Compelled to Retreat.

GATEWAY TO THE PLAINS OF NORTHERN HUNGARY OPEN TO THE RUSSIANS

Military Experts Believe That There Will Be General Retirement of Austro-German Forces—In North Poland the Russians Claim That the Germans Are Being Driven.

260,000 PRISONERS TAKEN BY RUSSIANS SINCE JAN. 21

London, April 5.—(2:59 a. m.)—The Daily Mail's Petrograd correspondent asserts that the Russians have taken 260,000 prisoners on the Carpathian front since the advance began January 21.

A Petrograd dispatch to The Daily Telegraph says that for some time past the Russians have taken prisoners in the Carpathians at the rate of an army corps every fortnight.

London, April 4.—The Russian army which took the Austrian fortress of Przemysl has achieved another victory. Starting westward from the Galician stronghold immediately after the fall, the Muscovites now have entered the Beskid mountains—a range which connects the little Carpathians with the eastern Carpathians and forms part of the boundary between Galicia and Hungary—and driven out the Austrians who had stubbornly held the passes and heights.

Brief, indeed, is Vienna's acknowledgment that this vantage point, the gateway to the plains of northern Hungary, has been evacuated. It says merely that the Austrians were compelled to make the move because of the presence of large Russian reinforcements from Przemysl.

BLOODY FIGHTING TAKING PLACE.

To the eastward in the Carpathian sanguinary fighting is taking place. Both the Austrians and the Russians claim victories at various points along the capture of men and guns. In the region of Virawa, Austria asserts that 2,020 prisoners were taken. In the vicinity of Zalesczkow almost all the Austrian forces are declared to have been killed by the heavy guns of the Austrians and the position was taken. This admission is made by the Russian command-in-chief, who, however, asserts that the place almost immediately was retaken by a counter attack.

The opinion of British military experts that the Austro-German forces will have to retire to the mountains because of Russian numbers and another effort there to prevent the Russian armies, and particularly the Cossacks, from swarming over the plains of Hungary.

In north Poland a cavalry charge in the Suwalki district resulted in a defeat of the Germans, who were driven away with loss in men killed or captured, according to Petrograd. Berlin says the Russian attacks near Augustowo were repulsed.

LITTLE FIGHTING ON WEST FRONT.

There has been little fighting in the west. The French have taken the village of Ailly-sur-Meuse, north of Woevre department, from the Germans, while the Germans have captured from the Belgians the village of Ivel. Gradual progress, however, is not believed that the Germans will make any big attempt in this region, as floods, which can be brought about at any time by opening the sluices, offer an impenetrable barrier to a general advance.

Fighting also continues in the forest of Le Paroe, which has been the scene of a long and sanguinary battle.

Nothing new has been received from the Dardanelles or the Caucasus fronts, although a Russian semi-official report says the Turkish protected cruiser Medjidieh struck a mine and sank.

So far as the Balkans are concerned interest centers in the raid by Bulgarian irregulars into Serbia, which has been successfully countered. The Serbians charge the raiders were led by Bulgarian, Austrian or German officers, while the Bulgarians reply that the outbreak was the result of the Serbian administration of that portion of Macedonia which is largely inhabited by Bulgarians. It is expected here that the matter will be settled by Bulgaria promising to punish those responsible for the raid, if it is proved that they actually organized the operation.

DEFEAT ADMITTED BY AUSTRIANS.

Vienna, April 4.—(via London.)—Retreat of the Austrian forces in the Bes-

Weather Prophecy
FAIR.

Washington, April 4.—Forecast:

Georgia—Fair and rising temperature Monday and Tuesday; light to moderate variable winds.

Virginia—Fair and warmer Monday; Tuesday fair.

North and South Carolina and Florida—Fair and rising temperature Monday and Tuesday; light to moderate variable winds.

Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana—Fair and warmer Monday; Tuesday fair, fresh south and southwest winds.

Tennessee and Kentucky—Fair and warmer Monday; Tuesday fair.

kid region of the Carpathians, where some of the heaviest fighting has taken place in the struggle for control of the mountain passes leading into Hungary, was announced today at army headquarters. The statement reads:

"The presence of large Russian reinforcements arriving from Przemysl compelled the Austrian army to withdraw from the Beskid region.

"In the Carpathians fighting on both sides of the LaBorcza valley continues.

Yesterday we attacked the eastern heights and dislodged the enemy from several strong positions. Russian attacks east of Virawa were repulsed.

"In yesterday's engagements we captured 2,020 prisoners.

"North of Uzsok pass the situation is unchanged. Renewed Russian attacks miscarried after a short fight.

"There is no news from the other fronts."

The Beskid mountains form part of the boundary between Hungary and Galicia. They are a section of the Carpathians, the barrier upon which Austria-Hungary relies to halt the Russian advance.

On the mountain heights and in the passes fighting has been in progress all winter in the snows and bitter cold. Recently the Russians announced important successes, although these claims hitherto had not been corroborated in Vienna. Fighting in the Beskids has been severe recently. Yesterday's Austrian statement said it had been ascertained that all the Russian divisions released by the fall of Przemysl were now on the Carpathian front.

GREAT SUCCESS FOR RUSSIANS.

Petrograd, April 4.—(Via London, April 5, 1:55 a. m.)—The following official communication was issued today:

"On the front to the west of the Niemen river (north Poland) the fighting is developing greatly in our favor. Our cavalry, on the road between Kalwarya and Simno, in the region of the village of Zelonialuboda, after a stubborn fight Friday with German cavalry, which was supported by infantry, made a dashing charge, sabering many of the enemy and capturing others. They drove the Germans from the region they were occupying and are now pursuing them.

"In the Carpathians on Friday we gained a great success in the sector north of the roads leading to Barfeld and also in the region between Mezolaborcz and Lutovizka.

"During that day we captured on the Carpathian front more than 2,000 soldiers and three guns and three machine guns.

"In the Zaleszitrow region the Austrians essayed an offensive, but all their attacks failed completely. We captured two officers and about 100 men.

"In the direction of Chotin, after the grave defeat inflicted on them March 30, by portions of our cavalry, who delivered an irresistible attack while on foot, the Austrians evacuated our territory and withdrew to their frontier, where they are fortifying themselves.

"In this battle of the 30th our cavalry showed unexampled bravery in attacking while afoot enemy infantry units with bayonet, saber and lance.

"In the Gulf of Odessa, on Saturday, a Turkish cruiser, believed to be the Medjidieh, struck one of our mines and blew up and sank."

TONGUE CUT OUT BY THE AUSTRIANS.

London, April 5.—1:22 a. m.—Reuter's Petrograd correspondent sends the following:

"A dispatch from the commander-in-chief received tonight (Sunday) says:

"In the region of Zaleszitrow, during the night of Saturday, the Austrians violently bombarded one of our fortifications with heavy guns, their fire killing all the defenders. The Austrian infantry then attacked and occupied our positions, but they almost immediately were dislodged by a counter attack made by a Russian company.

"The Russians found in a trench one of their comrades named Makuksa, whom the Austrians had captured and horribly mutilated. Makuksa had been acting as a telephone operator, and having refused to give the enemy information, his tongue was cut out.

"The commander-in-chief promoted Makuksa on the spot to rank as a non-commissioned officer and conferred on him the Cross of St. George, first class. He also expressed to Makuksa personal gratitude and commended his case to the attention of the emperor for a double rate of pay."

AUSTRIAN FORCES CUT TO PIECES.

London, April 4.—A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd gives a semi-official account of the defeat of the Austrian forces, which penetrated Bessarabia. It says:

"The Austrians were defeated and in part annihilated. A division of Austrian infantry and a brigade of cavalry held an organized position near the villages of Schlobody and Malintzy. Two columns of Russian infantry attacked them and enveloped their front on the morning of March 30, one column from the north and one from the south.

"The enemy resisted desperately, while the Russian troops delivered many assaults with the bayonet. Cossacks came up and dismounted. They also used cold steel and the heights were carried.

"Meanwhile, at the village of Rozkosoline, about eight miles north, an Austrian force was driven out by Cossacks with the bayonet. The Austrians then began a retreat along the whole front."

GUERILLA WAR ON GIANT SCALE.

Berlin, April 4.—(Via London.)—A description of conditions under which desperate fighting is being waged in the Carpathians is contained in a dispatch to The National Zeitung, which says that not only is the terrain tremendously difficult, but that it is so broken up by mountains and forests that the conflict resembles guerilla warfare on a colossal scale.

Unable to see parts of the territory involved, combatants often find it necessary to abandon a position gained at heavy loss because its view is cut off from other sections of the battle line. Although the Russians are constantly bringing up fresh troops and making terrible sacrifices, the correspondent says, their onslaught has been checked at Dukla.

The Russians for several days have been trying to force back the Austro-Hungarians in the middle pass between Lupkow and Uzsok passes. The Teutonic allies there, The National Zeitung says, have long been contending against greatly superior numbers, but nevertheless accomplishing wonders of endurance and bravery.

GERMANS CLAIM BELGIAN DEFEAT.

Berlin, April 4.—(By Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The war office today made the following announcement:

"On the Yser canal, south of Dixmude, German troops occupied the village of Drei Grachten, on the western bank, which was held by the Belgians.

"Several French charges in the forest of Le Fretre were repulsed.

"Russian attacks near Augustowo were repulsed."

PROGRESS MADE BY THE FRENCH.

Paris, April 4.—Tonight's official war office statement said:

"The day has been calm on the whole front save in the woevre district, where our progress has continued. We have taken possession of the village of Regneville, 2 1-2 kilometers west of Fay-en-Haye, which we occupied April 1."

TURK CRUISER SENT TO BOTTOM.

London, April 4.—The sinking of the Turkish armored cruiser Medjidieh is reported in a Reuter's Petrograd dispatch. A semi-official communication from Sebastopol to Petrograd says that the Medjidieh struck a mine near the Russian coast last night and went down.

The Medjidieh was a member of the Turkish Black sea fleet, which has attacked Russian ports and sunk Russian vessels. On January 31 Petrograd announced that the Medjidieh, with the Turkish cruiser Midrilli, formerly the German cruiser Breslau, had been discovered near Sinemoul, and shelled the Russian fleet.

The Medjidieh was built in Philadelphia. She was a small vessel and her armament was light. She was 351 feet long, and 12 feet beam, displaced 3,532 tons. She was armed with two 9-inch guns, eight 4.7-inch guns, six 3-pounders, six 1-pounders and two torpedo tubes. Her complement was 262 men.

London, April 5.—2:25 a. m.—Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent says:

"A Berlin dispatch received here states that Turkish headquarters report that the Turkish fleet yesterday (Sunday) was near Odessa, and that the cruiser Medjidieh, while pursuing enemy mine sweepers in the vicinity of the Russian harbor, struck a drifting mine and sank. Her crew was saved by other Turkish warships.

"The sailors of the Medjidieh, the dispatch adds, before the ship sank, removed the breech locks of the guns and torpedoed the ship to prevent her being refloated by the Russians."

GERMAN ROVER CLINGS TO AMERICAN REFUGE

Prinz Eitel Still at Newport News May Make Dash Before Tuesday.

Newport News, Va., April 5.—At 6 o'clock this morning the Eitel Friedrich was still at her pier, and there appeared to be nothing to indicate that she intended making an attempt to make a dash to sea any time soon.

Newport News, Va., April 4.—Having failed to take advantage of a twenty-four-hour period at which she was at liberty to make a getaway dash through the lane of British warships who lurk for her destruction off the Virginia capes, the German merchant raiding cruiser, Prinz Eitel Friedrich, remained at her dock here at a late hour tonight.

United States naval forces still control the port guarding the Prinz Eitel, which is interned, and officers from Fortress Monroe, Late in the day the battleship Alabama, which had been anchored in Hampton Roads, off old Point Comfort, guarding the channel to the sea, changed her position, moving further in and anchoring at the point where the Elizabeth river, the Norfolk and the James river to Newport News flow into the roads near the ship yard. Here the Alabama will be out of the channel used by the Norfolk and Washington steamboat line, while the naval tug Patuxent remained moored to the Prinz Eitel's stern.

That Captain Thierichens, commander of the Eitel, had intended to leave the refuge of this American port the last night was declared tonight to have been his earnest intention, and to have been allotted to the United States government held up the departure of British merchant ships from this port for twenty-four hours, which expired at 5:45 o'clock last night. To-night, however, the Prinz Eitel was interned, and there were no signs of preparations for early departure. Scores of newspaper men and photographers were still about the streets here tonight.

Some unexpected development, it was reported, had arisen to prevent the dash to the sea last night.

Another opportunity for the merchant raider to depart, it was reported here tonight, would be given by the United States tomorrow and tomorrow night, it was declared here asserting tonight that instructions had been received to arrange no merchant ships of the allies to leave the port of Norfolk and Newport News after noon Monday until noon Tuesday. This will give the Eitel another period of liberty in which to leave the United States waters, even if all time for her to make repairs allotted to the United States government has not expired. As three British merchant ships left this port early today, the Eitel would not be permitted to go before 10 o'clock tomorrow, at the earliest.

SERBIA STIRRED BY BULGAR RAID

Protest Made to Bulgaria. Arrest of the Raiders Demanded — Bulgaria's Attitude Will Indicate Future Policy.

Paris, April 4.—The Serbian government has protested to the government of Bulgaria because of the invasion of Serbian territory by Bulgarian irregular troops, according to The Petit Journal. While couched in moderate terms, the protest is said to request the arrest and imprisonment of those responsible.

Further details of the incident received today confirm the report that the raiders were driven away from the railroad station at Strumitsa, the Serbian town near the Bulgarian border, where the attack was made. The railway station master at Strumitsa reports that the line of Gheugheli is now clear of the rebels and apparently has not been damaged.

Captured Cannon Retaken.

Serbian frontier guards, who pursued the fleeing irregulars, retook two captured cannon.

Six bodies were found in the railway station at Strumitsa. The extent of the losses inflicted on the attacking force is unknown. Thirty bodies were found, and the raiders themselves picked up and buried others.

This is said to be the fifth incident of its kind since the beginning of the European war, and there is much speculation in Paris as to their exact significance. It is felt that Bulgaria's attitude on this occasion will indicate her future policy.

The Havas agency received today from Nish, Serbia, a dispatch saying that the losses of the Serbian troops were sixty killed and fifty-three wounded, including five officers.

INVADERS FLED BACK TO BULGARIA.

London, April 4.—The Serbian legation here today issued the following official dispatch from Nish:

"The Bulgarian irregulars were driven back from Strumitsa. The fight was short. When reinforcements arrived our advanced posts cleared the Strumitsa station and the invaders fled in the direction of Bulgaria.

"Our troops, pursuing the enemy, found thirty of their dead, and it is presumed that others were carried away. We lost fifty killed."

A semi-official communication from Nish to Reuters states that the invading force scattered among the Serbian frontier villages and compelled the inhabitants to remove to Bulgaria, taking their goods and cattle with them. It also is stated, although not confirmed, that the invaders set fire to the Serbian block houses at Planitch and Borasch.

NOT RESPONSIBLE, SAYS BULGARIA.

Rome, April 4.—(Via Paris.)—D. Rizow, Bulgarian minister to Rome, expressed the opinion today that the Serbo-Bulgarian border incident was the work of Macedonian revolutionists in Serbia who oppose the Serbian regime in control of affairs in the Balkan wars. M. Rizow asserted that the Bulgarian government was not responsible for the affair, and that its only desire was to preserve neutrality.

M. Bistritch, the Serbian minister, denied this. He said that Macedonians in this part of Serbia had no desire to oppose the present order of things. Responsibility for the incident, he asserted, might be determined by considering to whose interests it would be to provoke such an outbreak. This, he said, pointed clearly to Bulgaria, which by occupying the left bank of the Vardar river, could threaten to cut Serbian communications with Salonika, the only source from which the country could bring in supplies. Already, he said, wire communication had been cut.

GERMANY URGES ITALY TO CONTINUE NEUTRAL

Status of Relations Between Italy and Austria Gives Rise to Alarmist Rumors.

Rome, April 4.—Despite the difficult pass to which negotiations between Italy and Austria have come, Prince von Buelow, the German ambassador, continues his efforts to bring about an adjustment. His latest proposal, it is understood, is that the territory which Austria might cede to Italy be occupied by Switzerland during the remainder of the war, and turned over to Italy when peace is established.

This suggestion was advanced, it is stated, to insure Italy's continued neutrality. It is said Italy also rejected a proposal that Germany hold the territory to be ceded to Italy. It is generally felt that the ambassador's latest plan is impracticable.

The status of relations between Italy and Austria has given rise to many alarmist rumors. One report is being circulated that Prince von Buelow has left Rome, believing war inevitable. The prince and princess are living in their villa in the suburbs. The prince's manner always is confident, and his conversation optimistic.

The exodus of German and Austrian subjects throughout Italy continues. Denial is given to reports that Prince von Buelow has ever considered leaving Rome, although it is understood some of his belongings have been sent to Munich. The papal nuncio, Monsignor to the Quirinal and the Prussian and Bavarian ministers to the Vatican also are reported to have sent home some of their effects.

The arrival here of Tommaso Tittoni, Italian ambassador at Paris, for Easter is regarded as especially significant, although it is his custom to come to Rome at this season each year. This trip is considered important because of the gravity of the international situation and the important position Signor Tittoni occupies in Italian public affairs.

PROHIBITION QUESTION BEFORE GREAT BRITAIN

London, April 4.—The question of the prohibition of alcoholic liquors for the period of the war was discussed from pulpits throughout England today, clergymen urging that the example of the king and the cabinet ministers should be followed and that the use of alcoholics should be given up voluntarily.

One mail brought Chancellor Lloyd George about 15,000 letters dealing with the question of abstinence. The communications were in answer to the full-page appeal appearing in the newspapers urging citizens to write him in favor of absolute prohibition.

A meeting of the labor party at Norwich, on the other hand, strongly protested against the accusation that the output of war munitions was being delayed by drinking.

DENIED WORKINGMEN ARE DRINKING TOO MUCH.

Norwich, England, April 4.—James Kier Hardie and Frederick W. Jowett, members of parliament, addressing a labor meeting here tonight, declared the working classes were bearing the greater part of the war burden. They protested against the allegation that the workingmen were indulging in drink unduly. There were no anti-war speeches.

The meeting was attended by delegates to the independent labor party's annual meeting, and was arranged as a demonstration to precede the regular meeting.

While tonight's meeting was in session big crowds surrounded the building in which it was held and sang na-

FRENCH RUSHED MOUNTAIN PEAK

Vivid Description of Taking of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf From Germans — German Losses Heavy.

Paris, April 4.—A vivid description of the capture by the French of the summit of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf, a peak of the Vosges mountains (a few miles north of Thann), is given in an official war office communication today. The occupation of the height was announced March 21. The final phases of the struggle for this important strategic position which had long been in dispute are thus pictured by the French military observer:

"A small number of soldiers who reached the summit early in January and established a position in a small fort were forced to surrender on account of starvation, notwithstanding many continued efforts of their comrades to succor them.

Roused by Spirit of Revenge.

"All the troops are now aroused by a spirit of revenge and were only too eager for the attack. During the remainder of January and February energetic operations were carried out and on March 9 an assault was made. The German trenches were subjected to a heavy artillery fire and our men captured the strongest German blockhouse. During the night of the 10th and 11th we pushed on March 6 and 7, but was repulsed by our fire.

"On March 9 we attacked again, but on March 22 the greatest effort was made. Our artillery, which included guns fire from our Hotel Moulin cannon of all calibre, including many heavy guns, could be seen pulverizing and also portions of German bodies flying back in the air. Our infantry with a bound made a heroic charge, pouring in living streams into the two lines of trenches under a wall of fire.

"The work of fortifying the conquered trenches was begun and violent German counter attacks were not sufficient to drive out our men, who continued to look forward to the other German fortifications, confident of an ultimate victory.

"Our artillery on this occasion without counted attacks and the morning of March 23 our infantry had a splendid opportunity for our artillery. The artillery and infantry preparing for an assault were ordered to begin the final assault which took place and awaited for three months."

Dismembered Soldiers.

"Observers reported at least three lines of German fortifications and redoubts between our position and the village of Wattwiller. Then a rain of bombardment was begun by our artillery of all calibers from 75 millimeters to 320 and sweeping everything before it. Large pine trees were cut off, dismembering German batteries and fortifications. The ground was strewn with dismembered bodies of dismembered soldiers.

"At 3:30 p. m. with a tremendous rush our troops made a concerted effort, entering the enemy's positions and capturing the first line. They reached the summit shortly after, in the village of Wattwiller. The entire position of the fort, one of our objectives, was in our hands. Immediately, starting to the artillery that the position was ours and now to dislodge the enemy from the village, the Germans, utterly put to rout, dropped their guns and fled, leaving behind what remained of their company soldiers.

The note says that during the attacks of March 24 and 26 more than 1,000 German soldiers is not known. French losses were slight. The forest and our trenches were established on the farther slope, giving us the whole valley of Wattwiller and the French observation.

The German official bravery are reported. Among those is the exploit of one sergeant Hermann, who, alone in a German trench, entered into hand-to-hand combat with a soldier and killed him with his sword. The soldier then stepped out of the trench and killed a number of troops reached the trench, capturing many accounts.

REVIVAL SWELLS CHURCH THRONGS

Leading Pastors Report Addition of Over 300 Members on Easter Sunday, Largely as Result of the Chapman Meeting.

Echoes of the Chapman-Alexander meetings were heard in the churches of Atlanta Easter Sunday, when more than 300 new members joined.

The source of a big majority of this number was traced directly to the revival. Its influence, evangelical ministers say, establishes an epoch in the church history of the city.

Miss Martha Wilson, of 121 Clifton street, 92 years of age, who was converted at the Chapman-Alexander revival meeting, was received into membership at Hancock Avenue Presbyterian church, at Easter communion service on Sunday, along with twenty-six others, seventy-four of whom were received on profession of faith; sixteen of these came out of the Sunday school, the youngest of whom was 5 years of age. There were thirteen to receive the ordinance of baptism.

The largest new enrollment, however, was announced by Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, where there were 111 new members Sunday morning. A major portion of this number, he said last night, was due to the influence of the revival.

Dr. Dunbar Ogden, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, accepted ninety-nine new members at communion service Easter morning, a majority of whom had been influenced by the Chapman-Alexander meetings. More than forty-five have been received by the First Methodist church as a result of the revival. Forty-two were accepted in Wesley Memorial church, and ten in St. Mark's. Twenty-six, every one of whom had been sent by the revival meetings, have been accepted by Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist.

Two were accepted by the First Baptist church, of which Rev. C. W. Daniel is pastor. Many other churches reported similar gains.

The steady flow of converts into the evangelical churches of the city, leading religious experts say, means that a vigorous campaign to sustain the influence created by the Chapman-Alexander meetings will be launched at once.

The Evangelical Ministers' association will hold a meeting this morning to such an end.

With the East Snow Bound, Easter Parade in Atlanta Makes History for the Day

The day was wondrously fair. The sun smiled affectionately from azure skies upon the green and growing things and the splendor of milady's raiment. The streets rang with laughter and pleasantry. Downtown presented a radiant spectacle of style and color as Atlanta's most fastidious Easter parade moved back and forth from noontide until nightfall.

It was Fifth avenue transplanted. The impression felt by the traveler was that this stylish thoroughfare of the east had moved for the day into the heart of the south to escape the clutches of the wintry storm that prevented New York's annual style pageant. Fifth and all other avenues celebrated in style book and fiction might envy their troubles, but Peachtree bloomed anew with unprecedented grandeur beneath a sun that was never more benevolent.

Soon Shed Overcoats.

Sunday awoke with a touch of chill that soon vanished beneath the warming rays of a noontide sun. Early morning wayfarers ventured forth clad in overcoats, but shed them when church was over. Not a straw hat appeared upon the streets until the noontide warmth gave assurance that nothing would mar the day.

All the glory and glitter of the downtown shop windows seemed transferred to the backs and heads of the smiling-eyed girls and women who moved up and down the street in that throng of fashion's pace-setters.

The policeman on the corner of Whitehall and Alabama agreed with the traffic officer at the junction of Broad and Peachtree that more people thronged the streets in the afternoon than on any other Sunday in the city's history.

The churches threw open their doors to immense congregations. The downtown churches drew an unusually large crowd of visitors, transients, most of them, who could not resist the balmy day, and, wandering along the sunny streets, dropped into church to hear the elaborate musical service prepared in each.

The spirits of the gaily clad pedestrians seemed in tune with the weather. Laughing groups gathered on the corners to review the passing pageant. Automobiles hummed past with their loads of smiling girls and women. The small boy poked fun at the top hats and straws. Out in the residence streets the sounds of childish laughter filled the air as little girls in new pink frocks and frilly bonnets skipped through the crowds of afternoon strollers.

Crowds at Churches.

The downtown throngs stayed upon the streets until night darkened the skies and the lights came on. The crowds in attendance upon the night services in the churches were proportionately large, and elaborate programs were rendered also at night, and those who didn't care to leave the downtown district were able to hear special Easter song and musical programs in the Hotel Ansley, which is under the management of Cecil B. during the afternoon and early night.

Never has Dame Fashion been so much in evidence as Atlanta's Easter parade. Twenty-four hours from Broadway's style shops, Atlanta revealed that Atlanta is no Hindrance in keeping abreast with fickle fashion. And temperateness, too, was manifest, for there were fads and fineries disporting upon Peachtree Sunday that have never been seen outside this section.

A vaudeville team, two tastily attired girls, far from the glamour of Broadway, gazed jealously upon the competitive splendor of Peachtree. They beheld a spectacle that brought pangs of homesickness. Broadway at that very hour was shrinking from the fierce blasts of a sleet storm. Thestreet was in Philadelphia shivered in the same storm. Washington, Boston and Baltimore tucked their spring raiment into the wardrobe for another Sunday rather than risk it in the rain and sleet. Atlanta was outdressing the nation.

The tastily attired vaudeville stars admitted as much.

And why shouldn't they?

"Movies" on Sunday Assailed in Sermon Of Rev. O. L. Jones

The obscene joke, card playing and the institution of dancing were characterized as links connecting men's lives with evil pleasures by the Rev. O. L. Jones in a discussion of "The Ethics of Amusement" at the East Point Baptist church Sunday evening. Because these are modern amusements the world today than at any other period of human history, he believed that they formed one of the problems of modern society.

"Amusement is neither contrary to the precepts of the Bible nor to the nature of man," he said. "Dr. Spurgeon, the great divine of London, often left his congregations in prayer when the ripple of laughter was in his speech. Dr. Broughton is so susceptible to mirth that he is unable to keep it from his pulpit, and the Evangelist Moody enjoyed a joke as keenly as any man. There is a time for merry-making, but no Christian man can laugh at a jest that besmirches the memory, and no decent man can afford to find fun in an obscene joke of any kind."

Dr. Jones paid a tribute to pictures as means of pleasure, high inspiration and moral uplift. However, he decried emphatically the tendency of many motion pictures to portray suggestive ideas and to depict questionable pursuits. "They have even begun," he said, "to encroach upon the holiness of Sunday here in Atlanta. The proceeds, they announce, will be given to charity, and I do not doubt the truth of this. But this is only the opening wedge. No Christian man, therefore, can afford to support them."

In considering dancing, Dr. Jones said: "Nowhere in the Bible do the sexes mingle in their dancing, not even on the occasion when Salome danced the suggestive orgy that resulted in the decapitation of John the Baptist. The dance of today is for pleasure, for no men and women assemble there for exercise. It is an institution linked with the saloon and the brothel."

"POLICE WORK SUNDAY ON MANY BURGLARIES

A house burglary and a store burglary that took place Saturday night, but were not discovered until Sunday morning, kept the police and detectives busy Easter.

Besides these two burglaries, sixteen other burglaries, committed Sunday, two hold-up robberies, a snatch-purse robbery and a safe-drilling kept the detectives on the jump. Detective Chief Newport Lanford on the job all day Easter.

James R. Rice, of 227 Spring street, reported to the police Sunday that a thief had broken into his house. The burglar made his get-away with a large quantity of clothing, which included a pair of patent leather shoes, a blue serge coat, two new shirts, a razor, a ladies' black coat suit, a silk waist, a white jacket, three yards of black satin cloth and a lavender Easter suit.

J. H. Rosenberg's dry goods store at 1131½ Peters street was broken into by thieves and eight pairs of shoes stolen.

BIG CROWD HEARS REAGAN'S SPEECH TO CIGARMAKERS

T. J. Reagan, the organizer of the striking textile workers, who discussed the benefits of unionism, and some excellent bowling prizes, were the features of an interesting program rendered at the open meeting of the Atlanta Cigarmakers' union, which was held in the old Mill theater on Whitehall, Sunday afternoon.

Encouraged by the great interest shown in the meeting, the proceeds, they announce, will be given to charity, and I do not doubt the truth of this. But this is only the opening wedge. No Christian man, therefore, can afford to support them.

In considering dancing, Dr. Jones said: "Nowhere in the Bible do the sexes mingle in their dancing, not even on the occasion when Salome danced the suggestive orgy that resulted in the decapitation of John the Baptist. The dance of today is for pleasure, for no men and women assemble there for exercise. It is an institution linked with the saloon and the brothel."

PRISON NOT SO BAD; NEW CONVICTS SEE "MOVIE" FIRST DAY

The delegation of twenty-one convicts from Atlanta, who, since Saturday, are sojourning for various periods in the Atlanta federal prison, must have felt Sunday that the reports of the big Atlanta penitentiary is not such a bad place to spend awhile at that.

These convicts, consisting of nineteen negroes and two white men, convicted upon an assortment of charges and sentenced to various periods of service, arrived in Atlanta Saturday afternoon.

The very first taste of prison life that these prisoners got was a magnificent moving picture show, which was given to the inmates of the prison Sunday by the management of the Strand moving picture theater.

BIG CROWD HEARS REAGAN'S SPEECH TO CIGARMAKERS

T. J. Reagan, the organizer of the striking textile workers, who discussed the benefits of unionism, and some excellent bowling prizes, were the features of an interesting program rendered at the open meeting of the Atlanta Cigarmakers' union, which was held in the old Mill theater on Whitehall, Sunday afternoon.

Encouraged by the great interest shown in the meeting, the proceeds, large numbers of workingmen who attended and because of the evident awakening of the laborers of the city, it is deemed advisable to hold another open meeting in the same hall next Sunday. The films will be shown between the hours of 4 o'clock and 5, and 7 o'clock and 10 in the afternoon.

In urging the smokers present to the union cause, Mr. Reagan pointed conditions prevailing in the shops, both of the south and north, where the union card is not required. He said that this card was the working-man's sole instrument by which he could hope to attain to a better social station and to bring wages.

Talk referring to the textile workers who are now living under canvas, he said that they had been forced to that the elements of a long winter under the conditions because those in charge of the cotton mill would not allow them to enter a union for their mutual protection.

SHOT DOWN BY NEGRO, SAYS WOUNDED BLACK

A negro arrested by Detective John Black at the corner of Butler and Gilmer streets, after two shots had been fired, escaped his possession of a gun by saying that another negro had shot at him twice and then had thrown his pistol at him. When questioned at the Grady hospital, where he had been taken to have a bullet wound in his leg dressed, the boy stuck to his original story and denied that he had been hit by the detective who fired when the negro threatened to shoot him. At the stationhouse he gave the name of Robert Dixon, 17 years old, of 336 North Butler street.

Near the Auditorium Detective Black encountered two white men and a negro. All three fled, the black throwing a pistol over a garden fence. The white men managed to escape, but the negro and gun were captured.

RALPH PETERS DENIES CHARGES OF BURLESON

Railway President Says Postmaster General's Statements Are Reckless, Misleading.

New York, April 4.—Ralph Peters, president of the Long Island railroad, and chairman of the committee on railway mail pay, representing 264 railroads, today issued a statement answering declarations by Postmaster General Burleson on March 21, that the railroads are overpaid instead of underpaid for conveying the mails.

"Mr. Burleson," the statement says, "has publicly accused the railroads of being insincere in claiming that they are underpaid for carrying the mails. He says that the railroads are overpaid, and to sustain this charge says that they are receiving from the government more than which, during any considerable length exceed by about two to one the amounts they receive from express companies for similar transportation service."

Mr. Burleson, the statement declared, bases his assertion regarding the mail and express earnings of the railroads upon a number of comparisons, which, it says are misleading.

The statement declares the mail returns to the railroads increased less than 1 per cent in six years from 1907 to 1913, while the increase to the railroads from express traffic increased 27 per cent in the same period.

In conclusion, the statement quotes from the report last year by the joint congressional committee on railway mail pay, which, it says, investigated the questions and rejected the "experiment" attempts to show negative earnings from mail as reckless and misleading."

VILLA-ZAPATA FORCES TO HOLD MEXICO CITY

Rumors of Evacuation Denied. No Danger of Attack by Carranza.

Washington, April 4.—Ismael Palafox, in charge of the foreign office of the Villa-Zapata government in Mexico City, today telegraphed Enrique C. Llorente, Washington representative, that there was no intention of evacuating Mexico city, as reported in diplomatic dispatches several days ago.

The text of the message follows:

"You can deny the rumored evacuation of Mexico City as there is absolutely no ground for it. The capital is sufficiently well garrisoned. We have 6,000 troops in the city, besides 10,000 in the suburbs. There is absolutely no danger of an attack by the enemy, as Obregon is heading toward Tampico to reinforce General Gonzales there. General situation good. Commerce, industry and banks are opened and all administration working harmoniously. The spread of the rumor of the evacuation caused a little alarm, but as soon as denied by the government, calm was restored."

GAMBLING GAME IN RED CROSS HOSPITAL.

Brownsville, Texas, April 4.—Easter Sunday passed with only occasional exchanges of rifle fire between the Villa forces investing Matamoros and the Carranza troops defending the town.

Five hundred Villa troops with one cannon were reported to have reached Reynosa, about 60 miles west of Matamoros, today. An express car which arrived from Reynosa said Carranza supporters had contained an aeroplane for use at Matamoros and others declared was loaded with ammunition, arrived here late today. It was not unloaded today.

There were special Easter services for the 150 Villa wounded in the Red Cross hospital here, first a Catholic and then a Protestant service. After the services, H. C. Harrison, business manager for the Red Cross, discovered some Mexicans, who, after entering the hospital under the guise of friends of wounded men, had started a gambling game beside the beds and were winning the soldiers' money. There was about $25 at stake when Harrison put an end to the game.

Juan Perales, 30-year-old Villa cavalryman, was among those operated on in the hospital today. The rebel's knee was shattered by fighting at Matamoros. He submitted to the operation and promised to carry it given to candy Easter rabbit. He kept his promise.

THOUSANDS ATTEND OPENING OF REVIVAL IN CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Charlotte, N. C., April 4.—(Special.) At the two opening services of the Chapman-Alexander revival here today, more than 12,000 people attended, a great audience greeted Dr. Chapman at his Easter sermon this afternoon. A large number of people were unable to find room in the tabernacle.

The tabernacle, like the one in Atlanta, is located in the center of the city and accommodates more than 6,500 people.

The five weeks' campaign of the Chapman-Alexander forces is now thoroughly organized here. Six hundred personal workers are enrolled and a choir has been organized consisting of one thousand voices.

This is the first big revival which has been held in Charlotte in twenty-five years, and the interest which pervades the city is great.

FIRST MONEY STATEMENT BY THE MORMON CHURCH

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 4.—The first public financial statement ever issued by the Mormon church was presented today before the annual conference. The report shows that the church collected $1,887,920 from tithes in 1914, of which $730,960 was expended on church buildings, $230,844 to maintain the church schools, $64,608 to maintain the Mormon temple, $227,000 for missionary work, $95,252 to maintain church officers, $136,127 to complete and maintain the hospital in Salt Lake City and $116,228 to the poor.

The report also shows that Mormon relief societies and local church organizations gave $150,290 additional for the relief of the poor, and that the European war relief fund of the church amounted to $23,000. The report shows a net increase in the membership of the church of 129,942. The total membership is not given.

The report shows that 1,316 men and 114 women are engaged in Mormon missionary work.

BUILDING ZEPPELINS FOR RAID ON LONDON

Geneva, April 4.—(Via Paris.)—The tenth Zeppelin airship, constructed at Friedrichshafen, was given a successful trial above Lake Constance yesterday. The latest type seemed to be longer and narrower than the previous models and speedier. Apparently there is less space for the crew and for the carrying of bombs aboard the new craft.

Work has been started on an eleventh dirigible. Officers and men at the Zeppelin works are said to still hold the belief that a concentrated Zeppelin attack will be made on London and ships in the Thames.

FIRST STRAW HAT APPEARED SUNDAY IN EASTER PARADE

The first straw hat of the season made its timorous appearance in the early hours of Peachtree's fashion parade Easter morning. Not only was it distinguishing in itself, but its sartorial accompaniment, pearl gray suit, inflammatory necktie of carmine hue, gray gloves and a swagger stick, lent it the more pronounced.

It sat upon the yellow head of the first man to summon courage enough to venture forth beneath it in the slight chill of the early Sunday breeze. Later in the day, however, when the sun diffused a warmth that invited all manner of mankind to the streets, it was joined by at least five companions.

SHIP SENT TO BOTTOM BY GERMAN SUBMARINE

Four Members of Crew Drowned—Steamer Sunk Off Land's End.

London, April 4.—The steamer City of Brenos, of Dublin, has been sunk by a German submarine off Wolf Rock, in the English channel, about five miles south of Land's End, Cornwall. Four members of the crew were drowned. Twelve survivors have reached Penzance.

Available shipping records do not contain the name of the steamer City of Brenos, of Dublin.

AUSTRIAN STEAMER DESTROYED BY MINE.

Paris, April 4.—Thirty-five of the crew were drowned in the destruction of the unidentified Austrian steamer which blew up in the harbor on the night of March 29, after striking a mine near Ilitopek. According to a Havas dispatch from Nish.

It is believed the steamer was possessed with a large quantity of munitions intended for Turkey. The wreck was carried on its side with the funnel under the British artillery at Ilitopek. Another explosion followed the first, completely destroying the wrecked vessel sank.

Before leaving Salonika the capatin reported to the consul the reminded the members of his crew that they had an important mission to fulfill and each sailor received a bonus.

Nish, April 4.—(Via London, April 5, 3:21 a. m.)—An official statement issued today says:

"The Austrian ammunition ship Bellgrade sank in the Danube opposite Ritonek, on the night of March 29. An explosion was caused aboard the Bellgrade by a mine. Thirty-five of the crew of nearly forty, only two were saved."

GERMAN SHIP SUNK BY MINE IN BALTIC.

London, April 5.—(1:03 a. m.)—A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm says the German steamer Grete Heinsoth struck a mine in the Baltic and sank, and that twenty-five members of her crew were drowned.

The Heinsoth was a vessel of 1,554 tons. She was engaged in traffic between Sweden and Germany.

TWO GERMAN SHIPS SUNK BY MINES.

London, April 5.—(2:02 a. m.)—A dispatch from Malmo, Sweden, says Reuter's Copenhagen correspondent asserts that two German coasting steamers, during the last few days, have struck floating mines and sunk in the Baltic in immediate proximity to the route between Trelleborg and Saszenitz, on which traffic has been suspended temporarily. The crews of the steamers were saved. Some of the men have been landed at Sassnitz."

MORTUARY

(All Funernl Notices Appear on Last Page.)

D. G. Dunn, Zebulon.

Zebulon, Ga., April 4.—(special.)—After a brief illness, David G. Dunn, assistant cashier of the Bank of Zebulon, died here last night of pneumonia. The deceased was a son of Tax Collector Dunn. He was only a few days old and leaves a young wife and child, three brothers and a sister. Funeral services were conducted this afternoon by Rev. J. W. E. Bonnell, after which the interment was assisted by Rev. J. W. King, of the Congregational church. A large number of people attended the funeral, attesting the esteem in which he was held.

LITTLE SPEAKS TODAY TO ATLANTA CHAMBER

In Afternoon Chemist Will Be Entertained at the University Club.

Arthur D. Little, a noted chemist of Boston, who has been entertained by the Georgia branch of the American Chemical society since his arrival in the city Sunday afternoon, will be the guest at a luncheon of the chamber of commerce at 12:30 o'clock today. Mr. Little will be the chief speaker.

In discussing "The Industrial Resources of the South," he will point out the possibilities for development along the chemical lines. Mr. Little is well acquainted with the southern states, where he has many interests in chemical concerns.

The University club will give a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Little Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The members of the club and their lady friends are invited. An invitation is also extended to members of the College Woman's association, Atlanta Pan Hellenic Alliance, Francalse, Writers' club and other organizations meeting at the club. It has been impossible for the committee in charge, which is composed of Edward Lyle, chairman, E. Lee Worsham and Warren Moise, to send notices to everybody, so the club officials decided to issue their invitation through The Constitution.

"CLEAN-UP" WEEK BEGINS

City Will Be Made Spotless for Grand Opera Season.

Make Atlanta a spotless city! This is the slogan of the Chamber of Commerce, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Rotary club, Ad Men's club and other civic clubs, who ask the cooperation of every householder during the ensuing week, which has been set aside as "Clean-Up Week."

Chief John Jentzen, of the city sanitary department, has his entensive department in readiness and scores of carts will be ready to respond to calls from any part of the city, to haul trash and debris to the destructor plant.

Atlanta is expected to set a new record on cleanliness and every Atlantan's support will be needed. The school children have pledged to carry the work into their homes and to assist their teachers in cleaning up the school buildings and premises and everything will be shipshape for the entertainment of visitors during grand opera week.

Try This Goulash.

One cupful of fresh chopped beef fried in a little butter and one-half minced onion. Season with pepper and salt. Remove from fire and add one cup boiled rice and two chopped canned pimentos. Cover with one can of condensed tomato soup and simmer 20 minutes. You'll find this a tasty and pleasing dish for any meal in the day.

THE MORNING PAPER.

There could be no better or more conclusive testimony as to the value of the morning newspaper than that which comes from General Manager S. S. Carvalho of the Hearst publications, including both morning and afternoon papers printed in many leading cities of the United States.

Widely experienced in the handling and management of both classes of publications, Mr. Carvalho, called as a witness in a recent injunction proceeding brought by Mr. Hearst in New York, had this to say of the comparative news value of the evening and morning papers:

"A large percentage of the news it (the evening paper) prints is in bulletin form and is not produced as a complete newspaper like one issued in the morning. The evening paper prints from three to eight editions, and one paper cannot beat another except by a few minutes in the matter of time. They exchange news. There is no copyright on news."

This is the testimony of one of the ablest newspaper men in the country—that the complete newspaper is the morning newspaper, and that the afternoon newspaper is necessarily a bulletin.

News in bulletin form snatched from rumor, hurried from mouth to mouth to the first telegraph station, necessarily lacks that accuracy which proceeds from inquiry and verification. It has been proven every day during the progress of the European war. Bulletins have whipped the Germans and whipped the allies scores of times in blanket type, only to lose life and caste and truth when the "old reliable" comes along the morning after with the real facts in the case.

We have no word of disparagement for the afternoon paper. It fills its important, its essential field; it does its good work. It lacks the time often to get the facts, it must take the best it can get, and that best, in the very nature of things, is frequently rumor which must suffer contradiction when the facts are known.

The bulletin which may or may not be true—and who can tell when so often it has suffered contradiction?—undergoes investigation, and the true facts, in detail, are presented in the morning paper which has wide facilities for ascertaining them.

Mr. Carvalho's testimony will prove interesting and cumulative. It bears out The Constitution's oft-repeated contention: The public looks to the morning paper for the real news of the day!

GIRLS WHO BUILD.

The canning club girls offer to the people of Georgia a unique opportunity to advance the "living at home" doctrine and keep money within the state to the advantage of all concerned. Many of them last fall put up thousands of cans of tomatoes. Many of these they are now anxious to sell, and they are approaching the state chamber of commerce to act as intermediary between them and the consumer.

It is superfluous to say that there is no better product than the home-made product when it is prepared under proper conditions. The fact that government demonstration agents in most cases supplied the formula for canning these tomatoes is a guarantee in the latter respect. When you buy canned goods from these Georgia girls, therefore, you are doing two things: you are getting a first-class article at the market price; you are inspiring that girl to broaden her operation the next year, encouraging her to become the first-class wife of a first-class farmer, to stay on the farm contented and happy, instead of pursuing a rather precarious existence as a working girl in the city.

The more one looks into the demonstration work done by the government with the co-operation of the state college of agriculture, the more significant and far-reaching the possibilities appear. The main thing that drives men and women from the country to the city is the belief that they can make more money in the latter; that they can escape the monotony and isolation that are the bugaboos of rural life. Increase the revenue-producing power of men and women in the country and you remove a prolific source of discontent. You also put into the hands the means to buy those conveniences and facilities that are antidotes for monotony. You plant a germinating spirit of hope which may ripen into a harvest that time alone can compute.

The idea back of the movement is not confined to tomato clubs, corn or pig clubs. It runs the rural gamut and means a revolution in rural life. That is why it is to the pocketbook interest of every man and woman in Georgia to encourage these various movements among the farm youngsters of the state. They are helping themselves and they are helping a rising generation to become farm builders for tomorrow.

THE LITTLE INDUSTRIES.

Of the daily good results of the Atlanta Emergency Association for Unemployed Women, no one has proven more surely the value for the organization than the incident of the Atlanta merchant who gave to the chairman of one of the committees the contract to get two thousand dollars' worth of a certain kind of embroidery done. He had been sending heretofore all his linen sheets, cloths and napkins and small articles of household ware to the eastern markets, that initials and monograms might be embroidered upon them in the most expert fashion. He estimated that if this work could be done here by women experts in that line there would be a saving to the merchant and the buyer in the matter of the necessary shipping of the wares to the east and back that would accrue directly to the Atlanta market.

When the emergency association was opened it was found that more than two thirds of the women had children dependent upon them, and therefore would have preferred work they could do at home. The majority of them asked for sewing, and the majority of the leisure women who wanted work done wanted sewing. But in too many cases the women desiring the work were not efficient, and scarcely knew what their own qualifications were. This was noted in the emergency workshop, when at once a woman competent to instruct was engaged. At the headquarters at 19 Auburn avenue a competition in the embroidery of monograms, initials, etc., has been established, with a view to filling the contract of the Atlanta merchant. Of the many women who have brought samples of their work about one-tenth could produce good samples. But in every case there was a desire to learn. Suggestions have been made and a gradual improvement in samples daily brought encourage the association to believe that within the year there will be a number of women in Atlanta well enough equipped to fill the contract of the Atlanta merchant, doing the work in their own homes.

This is only one of the many little industries that women can accomplish at home developed through the agency of the Emergency Association for Unemployed Women.

THE PRICE OF THE FIGHT.

Life is work and play with Rev. Billy Sunday, and at their proper seasons he is as earnest with one as with the other. "Resting up" at Winona Lake, he said to a Chicago Tribune representative:

"If some of those delegations of preachers that I've been wiring to keep away from here insist on coming right on and find me doing my pitching medicine ball, take leaves and bowling on the square, they'll go back home and say I'm a quitter.

But the reporter told him that he had been criticised as a capitalizer of religion from a mercenary standpoint, and he wanted to hear from him on that point. Then he warmed up. He said he didn't know what his income was; that the newspapers knew, and he didn't; he hadn't kept any statistics in twenty years; all he knew was that he gave one-tenth of all that he received to the cause of the religion he preached. But he made this enlightening statement on the money question:

"Here they go and holler because I make more money than some other preachers. They might as well holler because some one doctor or some one lawyer makes more than others of the same profession. Johnny Kilbane and somebody else go in and fight for 15 minutes in a prize ring at $5,500 a side. That's $366.33 a minute for each of the fighter for the time he puts in.

"Were I paid for the time I put in on the platform fighting the devil at the rate these men are paid for fighting each other, the population in Philadelphia would have brought me $7,000,000."

Philadelphia seems satisfied with the Billy Sunday investment—whatever it was; and certainly it was worth $4,000,000 to start the glad old town on the good road!

England may mount the water wagon, but some of the sly old tapsters will console themselves with the thought that it's a short way to Slippery.

If Mexico accepts Huerta's sword she may hang it in the hall of back numbers and let it go at that.

March went sullen and sour-faced because he wasn't lionized.

Doubtful honors are being conferred on war heroes, notably the naming of streets for them in cities not yet taken.

And now England swats "booze" from king to commoner. Its only loyal friend seems to be the celebrated person who "never blamed the booze."

The poor missionaries are getting theirs. The warring heathen are not only godless, but hungry.

JUST FROM GEORGIA

By FRANK L. STANTON

He Ain't A- ussin'.

I

I ain't a-fussin' when the spring
Don't give the birds a chance to sing,
When winds are howlin' far and free
'Cross fields—where wild flowers ought to be,
And if a bird is in its nest
It feels the snow against its breast.
And finds no sunny place to rest.

II.

I say, I ain't a-fussin' round,
I keep my head and hold my ground
As if I heard the weather say:
"Sometimes I like to have-my way
With sunshine, or a rainy day,
And cut up just like people do.
I ain't much different from you."

III.

And so I hold me peace and wait
Until a latch clinks on a gate,
Where Spring, for sure is passing through
With dress of rainbow hue and dew,
And all her songbirds singing 'round her,
And then I thank my stars I've found her!

Boy-Author's First Novel.

Not every author regards his initial work with fondness," says the literary reviewer of The Chicago Herald. "But Holworthy Hall (Harold R. Porter) is an exception. He says of his first novel:

"I wrote first novel at age of eight. Civil war. Hero brave, boy as private. Killed a confederate and was made corporal. Killed another confederate, a rather large one, and promoted sergeant. So on ad infinitum, until he emerged generalissimo. Best thing structurally I've ever done—clearness, force and ease, unity, mass and coherence and a wallop every page."

The Vision.

James Wells, in "Summer-Time Songs of the Vision," in The Dalton Citizen:

In church I sought the risen Christ
Amid the rich and great,
Who gathered there with incense rare
To greet the risen Christ.

I found Him not, but passing on
I hushed an orphan's cry,
When lo! a vision bright appeared
And Christ said, "Here am I."

The Boston Globe says "this story comes from Kansas, not from Maine":

"A man picking his way over a country road saw a hat in the middle of the road. He picked up the hat and found a man under it. He said, 'Give me your hand, brother, I will help you to get out.' The man said: 'I thank I can get out, brother; I am on horseback.'"

The Hills of Georgia.

I

Each radiant morn, the Georgia Hills
Gleam bright and fresh-sun-kissed,
But late at eve they stand enveiled
A sheen of amber mist—
The old "Red Hills," where sunset spills
His glory and his glamour.
I love them all—both great and small—
Through winter and through summer!

II.

In spring, wild flowers bud and bloom
Beneath such turquoise skies—
And fringe the hill-side's shady gloom
With all their gorgeous dyes—
In dulcet runes, and eerie tunes,
The truant airs and birds
Sing Georgia Hills—the old "Red Hills"—
In songs too sweet for words.

III.

And Katy-dids, all summer through,
With other songsters chime
Till Autumn spreads her golden hue
About these hills of time.
Bright bramble-vine and moss entwine—
How beautiful to see!
Oh, Georgia Hills, ah old "Red Hills,"
Forever dear to me!

—AUGUSTA WALL.

The Holland Letter

Counsel who has been retained by Cass Ledyard, who is one of the defendants in the prosecution of a considerable number of the former directors of the New Haven Railroad company for alleged conspiracy in violation of the Sherman law, asked the court yesterday a day or two ago for at least three months' time, saying that as much as that was necessary for the preparation of his defense. The counsel in justification or this plea stated that the government had more than two years to prepare its side of the case. To this the assistant United States district attorney, Frank M. Swacker, replied that it was true that the government started the investigation more than two years ago, but that the attorney general at that time, George W. Wickersham, suddenly caused the investigation to be stopped.

The attorney referred to whom Mr. Swacker thus alluded was the counsel who represented Mr. Ledyard in this case, George W. Wickersham. He did not deign to pay any heed to the remark which Mr. Swacker made.

Mr. Wickersham's appearance as counsel for Mr. Ledyard in these criminal proceedings was the first intimation the public had that he had been retained in this case. There was, of course, no doubt in the world, however, general comment that an investigation which began when Mr. Wickersham was attorney general and which, through his appointment as successor in that office, justifying, as the government in Washington thinks, criminal prosecution of the New Haven directors, is now followed by Mr. Wickersham's appearance as counsel for one of the defendants.

There was no surprise in railway circles that Mr. Wickersham should have been called upon to defend his lifelong friend and professional brother, Lewis Cass Ledyard. The appearance of Mr. Wickersham as counsel for the defense and that of ex-Senator John C. Spooner, who is also numbered among defendant's counsel—infuses great interest in these prosecutions. Senator Spooner, even before he retired from the United States senate, was strongly persuaded that administrations at Washington prior to the present one were wrong in construing the sherman anti-trust law altogether too rigidly.

Strange Experiences.

Mr. Wickersham must have had some rather strange experiences since he retired from the department of justice. He has been brought into association with men of prominence whom he caused to be prosecuted. He is one of the vice presidents of an association which numbers among its other vice presidents Charles F. Brooker and Herbert L. Satterlee. These two men were of unimpeached business and personal reputations when the department justice saw fit, under Mr. Wickersham, to cause criminal prosecutions against them and sixty others of like character. They were indicted. They were all indicted and fined a thousand dollars apiece, although they had voluntarily dissolved the pool for organizing which they were prosecuted two years before, doing that because they had been advised by competent counsel that the arrangement might be a violation of the sherman law. Neither of these men feel very pleasantly about these prosecutions. An indictment for a criminal offense stands against them and records in their lives, although they were conscious of no guilt when the action which the government objected to was taken.

The trial of the New Haven company directors will be, in the best sense of the term, even more sensational than that of the directors of the American Sugar Refining company because the New Haven directorate as a whole was composed of men of greater distinction and influence than were those of the directorate of the so-called sugar trust. Eleven out of twelve jurors in the sugar case voted for acquittal, and that majority was so great as to persuade the government that it would be the better part to drop the proceedings. Lewis Cass Ledyard, whom Mr. Wickersham will defend, ranks with the ablest lawyers of New York, and as a citizen and man his career has often been pointed to as well worth of imitation.

Making Smaller Directorates.

If Norman B. Ream were now alive he would read with interest the announcement that the American Telephone and Telegraph company has reduced the board of directors, so that it now numbers seventeen instead of twenty-five. Mr. Ream was persuaded some years ago that it was a mistake for large corporations to make choice of large boards of directors. He felt that the United States Steel corporation would be just as well managed if its directorate were reduced and he used sometimes to intimate that, in fact, the management of the Pullman corporation was substantially in the hands of no more than seven men, whom he was accustomed to name. To elect a man as director conferred, Mr. Ream held, no obligation and responsibility upon him which in many cases were not recognized by those who were elected. For him it was a badge of honor to be named among the directors of a big corporation, and with that they were content.

The tendency recently has been to reduce the number of directors in large corporations and some have thought that in this way the accusations which have been leveled against interlocking directorates would be made of no avail by the voluntary action of a large corporation in reducing its board.

Those who are in position to make a good estimate are inclined to think that the late William D. Sloane did not leave much less than ten millions, and that his estate will upon inventory be found not much, if any, in excess of fifteen millions. Mr. Sloane was frequently numbered among the citizens of New York who possessed a great many millions. The tendency is usually to overestimate the amount of the estate of a rich man. The bulk of his estate goes to his widow, who is one of the daughters of the late William H. Vanderbilt, and to their children. Mr. Sloane would have been esteemed a wealthy man, for he was at the head of a very large business concern, even though his wife had not brought to him a large fortune. Mrs. Sloane is understood, however, to have maintained possession, at Mr. Sloane's wish, of her personal control over much the greater part of her share in her father's estate. The bequests made by Mr. Sloane are a little over $1,000,000. He was a man of large philanthropies it seemed to some as though the amount of these bequests did not fully sustain his reputation as a large and generous giver. The fact is, however, that he gave principally during his lifetime and the munificence of his beneficence is shown by his contributions, in association with his brother Henry, of nearly five hundred thousand dollars for the establishment and endowment of the great laboratory at Yale university.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.

REIGN OF MUD.

The weather was a thing of dread, week after week, all men complained; the clouds were always overhead, and every other hour it rained. Then ducks and alligators laughed, the bullfrog raised a cheerful sound; the rural postman, on a raft, still tried to make his weary round. There was no bottom to the road; a muddy stream, it struck the eye; six horses scarce could pull a load that one would pull when it was dry. I heard the citizens' remarks croak, "We're ruined if this thing keeps on; already we are nearly broke—the profits of a year are gone." I tried to show that endless rain was what the country needed most; I talked in optimistic strain, the while I leaned against a post. "This is no time for sunshine talk," the farmers said; "'tis vain, indeed, while we must watch our starving stock, because we cannot haul in feed. If you turn loose a joyous flood of language, while our hearts are sore, we'll push you headfirst in the mud, and you will dance and sing no more." And that's the luck I always have, when up against colossal grief; my sunny words don't seem a salve, my chortling does not bring relief.

Ponderous Personages—Raymond Poincare.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Raymond Poincare is a quiet Frenchman who does not seem to have much to do in these tumultuous European days. He is almost the only Frenchman who is out of a job. While millions of his countrymen are fighting in the trenches and other millions are doing double work at home he is condemned to a life of unusual idleness. All he has to do is to be president of France.

Being president of France is like being vice president of the United States. It is a sort of honorary interment, wished upon some patriotic citizen. The king of England, the emperor of Germany and the czar of Russia are all extremely busy these days with army matters. But if President Poincare were to wander into the trenches and order an army to advance on the foe he would be slapped on the wrist and sent back to Paris with a warning.

France doesn't trust a president any more than she does a king. When we elect a president we turn the government over to him and only ask him to present a message once a year and tell us the results. But when France elects a president she moves him into a large palace, provides him with plenty of food and uniforms and asks him kindly to shut up and play dead for seven years.

Before Poincare was president he was a very powerful man. He was premier of France and could run everything in the country. It was a severe blow to step down from this proud place and become president, but he was patriotic and did it. He is the most powerful France has had, but that isn't saying much. He is about as much president as Mr. Tumulty of Washington.

She asks him kindly to shut up and play dead for seven years.

M. Poincare is 55 years old and was born in Bar le duc, where the gooseberries come from. He was a cabinet minister at 33 and has been something important ever since until he got into the presidency. He has been a senator. He is a member of the academy. He has filled places in several cabinets. He is an author of note. He is still comparatively young and it is believed that when he gets out of the Elysee palace he will obtain some public position and endeavor to rise again to power. Still he has a long time to wait. French presidents serve seven years and do not get any time off for good behavior.

As Long as His Rivers Flow Into the Sea

By Ernest Neal,
(For The Constitution.)

Have you heard of the land of the Cherokees
With its wonderful streams and beautiful trees?
Of its flowers abloom, and the wild nenfume
That floats like a dream on the evening breeze?

Have you heard of Echota, the capital town,
And the grand old chief with feathery crown?
Of the warrior band, and the pow-wow
In the light of the moon when the sun goes down?

Far away in the past this quaint land lies,
And around it the Mountains of Years arise;
It is only in dreams we may hear the shrill screams
Of its eagles afloat in their native skies.

But its rivers glide on in rhythmic flow
Through fields of today from a weird long-ago;
The slow Conesauga, the clear Oostanaula,
Like their musical names gurgle soft and low.

In the laughing of the ripples of the sweet
In the falling of the waters of the silvery
Toccoa,
In the moanings, of Tallulah and the splashings of Yahulah
Are the wild and varied volumes of a never-written lore.

And we list to the song of the sad Etowah,
In his voice is a sob—a refrain from days afar—
While the rough Chattahoochee makes love to Nacoochee
In the shade of the Vale of the Evening Star.

From the gold-bearing mountains comes the rich Chestatee;
Through the valleys of the west glides the Coosawattee
In their music shall roll the Indian soul—
As long as his rivers flow into the sea.

Republican Possibilities.

(From Collier's Weekly.)

However the democrats may feel about it, and whatever the progressive and the independent voters may have in the back of his head, the republicans regard the presidential election of 1916 as a plum which they merely need to pluck for themselves. The recent session of congress was hardly over, and the members had not reached their homes, before at least eight separate booms were on foot for the republican nomination. In a fourth right it may be said with complete accuracy either that each of them is himself out avowedly for the nomination, or else that his friends are working actively for him, with or without his assent:

Ex-Senator Theodore Burton of Ohio.
Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts.
Ex-Governor Myron T. Herrick of Ohio.
Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan.
Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa.
Speaker James R. Mann of Illinois.
Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois.
Ex-Vice President Fairbanks of Indiana.

It does not follow that any one of these men is going to be the republican nominee. Neither do we mean to say that these are all the booms that are going to develop. It is merely recorded as a matter of present history that each of these men is a candidate. Most of them are candidates in the sense that they have avowed themselves as such to groups of people, large or small. The remainder are candidates in the sense that there are energetic groups of people working in their behalf. (Incidentally, the discriminating reader will understand that some of these booms are to be taken with much more seriousness than some others.)

When the monster United States fleet attacks New York, it might do the country a service by capturing Thaw and conveying him to a desert island where there are no lawyers.

With the Exchanges

GOOD MORNING AND GOOD EVENING.

(From The Haverhill Gazette.)

The apostles of cheerfulness and kindness are abroad once more. Good Morning and Good Evening clubs are springing up in cities of the west with the purpose of expelling the chilly indifference which exists between men who meet each other days after day on the streets, in cars, in offices, etc., and yet who have never formed the pleasant habit of giving a smiling nod of recognition. We are all familiar with the condition of things, which stirs this latent sense of good fellowship. In every residence neighborhood there are men who always take the same street cars downtown in the morning and frequently the same cars back at night. These same masculine atoms gather day after day and look at each other with deadfish eyes until the situation first becomes embarrassing and then hateful. Yet many of these atoms only require the presence of another atom—the "Good Morning" atom—when, presto! the magic effect of a social unbending is seen in a chummy group of friends, a neighborhood of neighborliness. All men of similar interests are pretty much alike. Once the crust of formality is broken and the ice is set in flow, may be friendly. Men become more ready to say suspicious, by force of habit. It is an unfortunate and unjustifiable habit and often leads to social estrangement that unspeakable community nuisance—the neighborhood grouch.

THE BLUES.

(From The Detroit News.)

Happiness and unhappiness are irrational. They are outside of theorizing or philosophy. A trivial incident sends our spirits up or down.

Thinking backward is how the Germans describe melancholia. The loneliness that is expressed in crowded places, and the yearning for days gone by or for far-off scenes creep unannounced into the heart.

Real troubles do not kill the joy of living. Catastrophe and hardship challenge the soul to combat. And there is a grim pleasure in meeting and grappling with adversity. The slumping of precious illusions, the chilling fogs of misunderstanding, jealousy, envy and self-pity, which at times seem to obscure the vision. Illusions which are only phantoms and our reason to be alive, no longer pleasant and glisten. Stark reality supplants the fanciful dead.

Every person has believed in his inner most mind that he had a monopoly of sorrow and tribulation. "No one as oppressed as I was," he thinks, "and no one as unsophisticated as I are." Establish there he who argue that no one is happier than anyone else, and that he who goes down to the depths of woe merely is paying for his ascents to the pinnacles of bliss.

MADE IN AMERICA.

(From The Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Central Illinois cheesemakers are profiting by the war. Certain grades of cheese heretofore imported from Switzerland are now being made in the United States that resemble the formerly imported article so closely, though at a lower price, that it is predicted the foreign trade will never be sought again.

How many other imported articles, shut off by the war, are being replaced by good made in America? In not a few cases, no doubt, the American product is unsquelched as imported just as it always did, but is not an excellent time to abandon this pretense and to come out openly and boldly for American enterprise? This course would seem dictated by sound business judgment. If the American article is substituted for the new unobtainable foreign article it will leave the way open for a resumption of foreign competition when the war ends. On the other hand, if the American manufacturer, for the time in exclusive control of his home market, pushes his own trade-mark, America goods under their true colors and thus convinces the public of their equalities or surpassing the imported goods, he will be the better able to hold his own market when the foreigner is again able to compete.

WILLIAM PENN'S MEASUREMENTS.

(From The Philadelphia Press.)

The height of the statue of William Penn on Philadelphia city hall is 37 feet, and it weighs 52,400 pounds. It was cast in Philadelphia in sections, and so skilfully that the most careful inspection fails to detect the junctures. It was placed in position in sections.

The statue is 5 feet in diameter, nine 22 feet in circumference, nose 13 inches long, eyes 12 inches long and 4 inches wide, mouth from corner to corner 1 foot, face from hat to chin 3 feet, hat 4 feet 6 inches long, shoulders 28 feet in circumference and 15 feet in diameter, waist 24 feet in circumference and 8 feet 9 inches in diameter and 4 feet long, fingers 2 feet 6 inches in circumference, feet in diameter and 4 feet long, finger nails 3 inches long, legs from ankle to knee 10 feet, ankle 5 feet in circumference, calf of legs 8 feet, thumb in circumference, feet 22 inches wide, 5 feet 4 inches long.

SOLE PRISONER PAROLED.

(Georgetown (Del.) Dispatch to The New York Herald.)

Elwood Armstrong, the sole prisoner in the Sussex county jail here, who recently complained to Governor Charles R. West that he was lonely and afraid to remain in the prison at night without company, will no longer be afraid.

Today he was paroled for two years to Charles S. Richards, of Georgetown, formerly secretary of state and brother of Robert H. Richards, former governor, and former attorney general. This was done after he had confessed to the theft of five dozen eggs.

Accordingly, the jail is now empty. The turnkey of course have in the back of his head, the republicans regard the next presidential election of 1916 as a plum which they merely need to pluck for themselves. The recent session of congress was hardly over, and the members had not reached their homes, before at least eight separate booms were on foot for the republican nomination. WOODCHUCK ATTACKS MAN.

(Middletown (N. Y.) Dispatch to The New York World.)

Crossing a field on a farm near Sussex, Hiram Rupture stepped into the hole of a woodchuck and was unable to extricate his foot.

The animal rushed to the mouth of the hole and bit the man's leg. Rupture screamed for help. He had about given up hope of relief, when two passers-by heard him and hurried to his aid. He was not seriously injured.

THAT'S ANOTHER QUESTION.

(From The New York World.)

Ex-Secretary of War Stimson is quite right in telling The Yale News that it might become easy for several nations in Europe and one in the Orient to land an invading army on our shores within a short time. But what about the possibility of landing an army big enough to get a firm footing before being eaten up?

PARDONED WIFE-SLAYER GAINS CONSCIOUSNESS

Roger McCall to Be Taken Home—Can Live But Short Time.

Macon, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Roger L. McCall, the nonogenarian wife murderer who was reported to be in a dying condition Saturday at the state prison farm and who was pardoned by long distance telephone by Governor Slaton, who called up the warden from Chattanooga, where he was attending the Dixie highway convention, has regained his consciousness and today the news of his pardon was broken to him by his son and daughter, who went from Macon for the purpose. They have arranged to have the aged man removed from the farm and he will be brought to Macon tomorrow.

McCall is said to be despecately ill, and is expected to live only a short time. He is 80 years of age. Two years ago, while under the influence of whisky, he shot his wife with a shotgun while she lay asleep in bed. He then got into bed and went to sleep, where he was later found by the officers.

LOVING TRIBUTE PAID TO LATE JUDGE BROWN

Canton, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Memorial exercises were held here today at the First Baptist church commemorative of the life and services of the late Judge James Brown. There was a large crowd in attendance, among those who delivered the addresses were Rev. T. F. Scoggins, superintendent of the Georgia Baptist Orphan home at Hapeville; Rev. B. D. Gray, corresponding secretary of the Georgia Baptists' home mission board; Hon. R. T. Jones, from the business men of Canton; Hon. Price Colley, representing the Canton bar. The tributes paid to the life, character and achievements of Judge Brown were very beautiful. A feature of the exercises was a song of honor of Judge Brown by a quartet of girls from the Orphans' home at Hapeville. Judge Brown was a large benefactor to the Orphans' home and was a consistent and faithful member of the Canton Baptist church from early manhood, and his liberal donations to many religious, missions, foreign and home, and his large contributions to other causes of the Baptist denomination made him a leader in his church.

BUTTS COUNTY FARMERS CUTTING DOWN COTTON

Jackson, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—That the farmers of Butts county will reduce their cotton acreage this year from 15 to 50 per cent is the estimate made by well informed planters from every part of the county. The conditions of the cotton the cut will amount to one-third in cotton acreage and one-half in fertilizers, while in other parts of the county the proportion will not be that great. All farmers are agreed, however, that there will be the greatest reduction in acreage and in fertilizers known in a generation.

MISS EMMA BAILEY MARRIES MR. SNEED

Macon, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Jesse L. Sneed, of Atlanta, was married to Miss Bailey, of Palmetto, Ga., were married today at the residence of Mr. N. Kinch, pastor of the Mulberry Methodist church. They left for Atlanta on the afternoon train.

COTTON IN SPALDING IS GREATLY REDUCED

Griffin, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—The cotton acreage in Spalding county has been materially reduced, according to reports from the various militia districts, this county's quota of the million acres to be planted in cotton at all, and in many instances they are devoting themselves to truck farming, the planting of grain and the raising of cattle and hogs.

WAYCROSS HIGHWAYMAN ATTACKS NEILL M'QUEEN

Waycross, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Neill McQueen, wealthy business man of Ludowici, here on a visit to relatives, reported to the police today that he was assaulted and robbed Saturday night on Brunt street, a few blocks from the Union station. He was struck with either brass knucks or some blunt instrument in the face, receiving a gash. He was rendered unconscious, and when he came to found a white man standing near him. Mr. M'Queen's request for a carriage was complied with. A small amount of change was taken. He had forgotten his watch when he left home.

Hookworm Campaign.

Jackson, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—A month's campaign against the hook worm is now on in this county, the work being carried on by the state board of health and the county. Dr. F. F. Rodgers in charge of this campaign, and he plans to visit every part of the county and make a large number of examinations. During the first of each week he will visit the country schools and on Saturday will be found at the courthouse in Jackson.

State Geologist's Report On Waterways of Georgia

A most important statement was given out last Saturday from the office of S. W. Lee, of the state geological, concerning the waterways of Georgia.

The state geologist received a few days ago the final report on the ground waters of the coastal plain of Georgia, and it is of the greatest interest and importance to all the people who own land south of Augusta, Macon and Columbus, for the Atlantic and gulf coastal plain is embraced in the section south of the cities named.

Mr. McCallie says that in 1908 the geological survey of Georgia, in cooperation with the United States geological survey, began the investigation of the coastal plain of the state. The result of that work has been published in two reports. The report on the geology of the coastal plain was issued in June, 1911. The report on the ground waters of the coastal plain has just been issued.

Mr. McCallie states that nothing can be of greater concern to many people of Georgia than the following from the United States department of the interior concerning the ground waters report:

Water Supply Great Resource.

"One of the highly important natural resources of this state, which has not always thoroughly appreciated, is its water supply. An abundance of water suitable for drinking and for general domestic and industrial purposes plays a part that can scarcely be overestimated in the health, progress, and prosperity of a community. State and federal geological surveys are charged with the duty of determining the nature and extent of water supplies.

"More than half the state of Georgia—the part lying south of a line passing through Augusta, Macon and Columbus—is included in the physiographic province commonly known as the Atlantic and gulf coastal plain, which slopes from a maximum elevation of about 600 feet on the northwest to sea level on the southeast. This vast low-land supports a rapidly-increasing population, which in 1910 amounted in round numbers to 1,200,000 people, or about half the population of the state. Because of the importance of water supplies to these people the United States geological survey, in cooperation with the geological survey of Georgia, has during recent years been studying the ground water supplies of the area, and the results of the investigations have just been published by the federal survey as water supply paper 241, by L. W. Stephenson, Otto Veatch, and R. B. Dole.

Full Report on Waterways.

"The report which embraces more than 600 pages consists of the geologic occurrence, the character, and the quantity of the ground waters, and the extent to which they have already been developed. Two maps accompany the report, one showing in detail the surface distribution of the geologic formations and the other the location and depth of wells and the areas in which the conditions are favorable for obtaining flowing artesian wells. The hydrologic map indicates in a striking manner that in the coastal plain the static head is great enough to cause the ground waters to overflow at many places along the lowlands near the coast and in the valleys of the larger streams but not great enough to produce flows on the uplands between the streams.

Production of Artesian Pressure.

"Two profile sections show the geologic structure of the coastal plain to be monoclinal, the general dip of the formations being from the inland northwestward to and southeastward toward the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic ocean. These conditions are therefore favorable for the production of artesian pressure. One part of the report treats of the chemical character of the ground waters, and another of the great practical value to the consumers of water. Water is required for manufacturing plantation, or domestic uses. Some of these subjects treated are boiler supplies, the use of boiler compounds, domestic supplies, and methods of purifying and softening water.

"The report will be useful, not only to the present inhabitants of the Georgia coastal plain, but also to persons who contemplate settling in that region for the purpose of establishing industrial plants or engaging in agriculture. A copy may be obtained free on application to the director of the geological survey, Washington, D. C."

ARTILLERY BOYS TO MEET TONIGHT TO PLAN MINSTREL

A call has been issued for all of the boys of the Atlanta battalion of field artillery, of the national guards of Georgia to meet tonight at the Auditorium-Armory to make final plans for the big minstrel entertainment and vaudeville which will be held under the auspices of the artillery on April 15, at the Atlanta theater, the proceeds to be used funds to carry the battery to San Francisco.

Under the direction of Robert Grant Yancey, lieutenant of the battery, the plans will be decided on Monday night for several military "stunts" which will be included in the program. Fifty to fifty of the young men will form a detachment appearing on the stage in military maneuvers of some nature, and the exact character of the military program will be definitely decided at the meeting.

Classes of instruction in artillery maneuvers will be held regularly hereafter, Lieutenant Yancey announced. R. M. Bailey and Sergeant R. F. V. Rudd have charge of the instructions. In addition to the meeting of the battery Monday night the committee in charge of the minstrel has called a meeting to the program will also meet, and Harry Hogan, formerly of Haverly's minstrels, of Chicago, the program will be at once perfected.

WILL DISCUSS RESULTS OF CHAPMAN MEETINGS

The regular monthly meeting of the Evangelistic Ministers association will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church. Rev. H. M. Huchlett, president, presiding. The devotional exercises will be led by the Rev. H. H. Garner, president Agnes Scott college. The subject for the day will be, "How Best Conserve the Results of the Recent Chapman Meetings." The pastors who have lately been called to important pulpits, the Rev. Robert Ivey, pastor Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church; the Rev. W. W. Du Vall, Payne Methodist Episcopal, south, and the Rev. C. L. Hill, Baptist Tabernacle, will make short talks.

DRUNKEN NEGRO AMUCK ON WAYCROSS STREET

Waycross, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—After he had tanked up on whisky today, Elza Ford, a negro, secured a pistol and fired to wake up the corner gathering on lower Reynolds street. His aim was poor, and none of the shots took effect. The police caught Ford.

WILLIAMSON MARSHAL JAILED FOR SHOOTING

Williamson, Ga., April 4.—(Special.) Hernia Davis, colored, shot last night at Hunt Armistead, town marshal. The result of the wound cannot be determined at this time, but it is considered serious. The marshal claims self-defense. He was arrested and jailed.

Douglas Negro Killed.

Douglas, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Frank Berry, drinking, was ordered away from Henry Watts's house Friday night. Insulted thereby, Berry returned with a loaded gun and was shot dead while advancing with gun leveled on Watts. The coroner's jury, finding a gun in the grip of the dead man, loaded and cocked, rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide. Both are colored.

Warned in a Dream, She Wakes in Time To Baffle Burglar

Negro Was Just About to Grab Woman by Throat When Scream Frightens Him—Leaves Coats and Shoes Behind.

Warned in a dream that she was in danger, Mrs. Nell Sullivan, aged 23, of 60 East Ellis street, awoke at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning to find a burly negro standing by the side of her bed, with hands outstretched as if to grab her by the throat.

Frightened by her scream, the black left the room of course, leaping out of the window to the veranda and dashing down the street. The young lady lost no time in summoning to her aid Mrs. W. L. Scott, with whom she boards, and the two women called in the police.

On the front porch the police found the negro's hat, overcoat, coat and shoes, which he had taken off and laid in a porch swing.

Call offered J. W. McWilliams, Jr., and G. H. Austin immediately telephoned Police Captain Mayo to ask him to put all policemen on the lookout for a negro without shoes, hat or coats.

The negro answering this description has just come into police station," said Captain Mayo, to the call officers.

Patrolman Quattlebaum, whose beat is on Whitehall street, had arrested Milledge Dalad, age 20, of 467 Spring street, as a suspicious character. Head had on no shoes, hat or coat, and could give no good reason for being on the streets at that late hour of the night garbed as he was.

Head is now under arrest suspected of being the negro who entered Mrs. Sullivan's room.

The negro reported to Police Captain A. L. Poole Sunday that two patrolmen had mercilessly beaten him with their clubs at the Peachtree passenger station earlier Sunday morning. Captain Poole reported the matter to Police Chief J. L. Beavers.

DEATH RODE STORM AND TOOK HARVEST

coast storm claimed ten victims in the Georgia waters, it was learned that were the crews of the Consolidation coal barges Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, from Baltimore for Boston, who were driven ashore on the Jersey coast near Cape Henlopen. The barges broke adrift from the tug Cumberland. Despite heroic efforts of the crews in the blinding snowstorm and a six-mile gale blowing at the time, it was unable to get another line to the barges, which drifted helpless for some time before going aground. For hours the tug stood by, but the fury of the sea made it impossible for her to render assistance. Finally the barges broke to pieces and sank with all hands aboard. The bodies of Captain Johnson, Baltimore; Karl Larsen, a Swedish subject, and Deward Elliott, of Baltimore, washed ashore late in the day.

The wireless station at seventy miles an hour at one time. Coast guards from the Fenwick Island and Rehoboth stations made repeated efforts to launch a life-boat when the crew of the barges was discovered, but could not get through the boiling surf.

A third barge which also was being towed by the Cumberland, was brought safely into the harbor at the Breakwater.

SEVEN MEN SAVED FROM THE OCEAN.

Charleston, S. C., April 4.—Captain Murrell and the six members of the crew of the American schooner Alice Wentworth were brought here today by the Clyde line steamer Lenape, by which they were rescued yesterday afternoon. logged vessel yesterday fifteen miles south of the Diamond shoal lightship, on the North Carolina coast. When the Lenape sighted the wreck, the men were lashed to the mizzen mast and had been without food for thirty-six hours.

The rescue was effected by Second Officer Wood and a boat crew, who volunteered to undertake the trip to the wreck in a raging storm. Oil was freely used by the rescue boat, and the men were taken from the mast without mishap.

The Murphy was lumber-laden from Savannah, Ga., for Providence, R. I. The leaking of heavy seas opened her seams and she became waterlogged last Friday. The crew was unable to put off in the small boat on account of the storm, and lashed themselves in the mast.

The schooner was built in Thomaston, Me., in 1874, and her home port was Rockland, Me. She was of 425 gross tons, 148 feet long and 33 feet broad.

TAMPICO MISSING WITH 13 PERSONS.

Charleston, S. C., April 4.—The coal-laden barge Antonio, which grounded after being towed to Galveston by the steamer Texas, was beached in this harbor today. She was towed in by tugs which answered wireless calls from the Texas yesterday. The barge's crew is safe.

After towing the San Antonio in, the tug Wahan put to sea in search of the barge Tampico, missing since Tuesday last, with thirteen persons aboard, but her quest had been without result early tonight. Fears for the safety of the Tampico are entertained here since yesterday's storm.

Wilmington, N. C., April 4.—The Morgan line steamer Comus, New Orleans to New York, was driven ashore today to the coast guard cutter Seminole after being battered and disabled by the crew of the barge Northwestern, which broke away from the tug Wellington Tuesday night and foundered off the North Carolina coast, northeast of Cape Lookout. The tug was en route from Jacksonville for New York.

The Seminole will put to sea tomorrow to destroy the wreck of the barge, as it is a menace to navigation, and to pull all policemen on the lookout for a negro without shoes, hat or coats.

The negro answering this description has just come into police station," said Captain Mayo, to the call officers.

Patrolman Quattlebaum, whose beat is on Whitehall street, had arrested Milledge Dalad, age 20, of 467 Spring street, as a suspicious character. Head had on no shoes, hat or coat, and could give no good reason for being on the streets at that late hour of the night garbed as he was.

Head is now under arrest suspected of being the negro who entered Mrs. Sullivan's room.

The negro reported to Police Captain A. L. Poole Sunday that two patrolmen had mercilessly beaten him with their clubs at the Peachtree passenger station earlier Sunday morning. Captain Poole reported the matter to Police Chief J. L. Beavers.

DEATH RODE STORM AND TOOK HARVEST

coast storm claimed ten victims in the Georgia waters, it was learned that were the crews of the Consolidation coal barges Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, from Baltimore for Boston, who were driven ashore on the Jersey coast near Cape Henlopen. The barges broke adrift from the tug Cumberland. Despite heroic efforts of the crews in the blinding snowstorm and a six-mile gale blowing at the time, it was unable to get another line to the barges, which drifted helpless for some time before going aground. For hours the tug stood by, but the fury of the sea made it impossible for her to render assistance. Finally the barges broke to pieces and sank with all hands aboard. The bodies of Captain Johnson, Baltimore; Karl Larsen, a Swedish subject, and Deward Elliott, of Baltimore, washed ashore late in the day.

The wireless station at seventy miles an hour at one time. Coast guards from the Fenwick Island and Rehoboth stations made repeated efforts to launch a life-boat when the crew of the barges was discovered, but could not get through the boiling surf.

A third barge which also was being towed by the Cumberland, was brought safely into the harbor at the Breakwater.

SEVEN MEN SAVED FROM THE OCEAN.

Charleston, S. C., April 4.—Captain Murrell and the six members of the crew of the American schooner Alice Wentworth were brought here today by the Clyde line steamer Lenape, by which they were rescued yesterday afternoon. The waterlogged vessel yesterday fifteen miles south of the Diamond shoal lightship, on the North Carolina coast. When the Lenape sighted the wreck, the men were lashed to the mizzen mast and had been without food for thirty-six hours.

The rescue was effected by Second Officer Wood and a boat crew, who volunteered to undertake the trip to

NOISES ARE ENDED IN SLEEPING CARS BY RAILWAY ORDER

Unnecessary noises which are likely to disturb passengers in sleeping cars on the trains and stations for the occupancy during the early hours of the night, have been put under the ban by the Southern railway.

Rigid orders have been issued in regard to the ringing of bells by switch engines and loud talking by porters and other employees, a campaign for the suppression of unnecessary noises having been inaugurated by Vice-President and General Manager Coapman. Rules governing the matter are as follows:

"Sleeping car berths on this train are reserved for occupancy at (time). Kindly avoid all loud conversations or other noise in or around sleeping cars after that hour."

The results have been so satisfactory as to eliminate almost entirely complaints from passengers arising from annoyances of this character.

YOUTHS NEAR DEATH WHEN MOTORCYCLE TOSSES TWO RIDERS

When the motorcycle of Pawnee Scott, age 19, of 1106 Marietta street, crashed over a railroad bridge on Marietta street, near Inman Yards, Sunday afternoon, he saved his life by leaping the rail of the bridge as he was thrown high into the air.

He escaped, more than hurt. Scott held fast to his hold, and pulled himself back to safety. A second later a fast speeding outgoing passenger train whizzed under the bridge.

Claude Ware, age 18, of 47 Alma avenue, who was driving the motorcycle, was not so fortunate as Scott. Ware was riding on the rear seat. Ware was thrown into the bridge rail, and his right hip dislocated and broken in two places. He was rushed to the Grady hospital.

The machine became uncontrollable," said Ware. "I was trying to throw in the clutch to slow down for the bridge. Something went wrong, and the motor sped faster, instead of slowing down. When I struck the bridge the machine bounced a couple of feet into the air, and I lost control of the steering bars."

AT THE THEATERS

"A Pair of Sixes."

(At the Atlanta.)

This morning at 9 o'clock seats will be placed on sale at the Atlanta for the engagement of "A Pair of Sixes," which will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a matinee Saturday afternoon. This is unquestionably one of the funniest farces written in many years and deals with the adventures of two young partners in the pill-making business. As the love story runs through it and genuine heart interest is cleverly intermingled with amusing funny situations which keep one laughing constantly, it will be given in Atlanta by a most excellent company of which Oscar Figman is the head. Mr. Figman has appeared here in many plays and is well known. Among the women Jane Meredith is exceptionally pretty and vivacious.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Harry Beresford, supported by an amusical cast in the delightful dramatic oddity, "Twenty Odd Years," heads an impressive Easter bill at the Forsyth this week. George Felix and the charming Harry girls offer "The Boy Next Door," and a dash of Frisco irresponsible tom-foolery, the sort that has made him famous from coast to coast in Oberta Moore and Myrtle Young, two of vaudeville's prettiest face and cleverest dancers, will be one of the bill's biggest hits. The Six American Dancers is an act of rare quality, three girls and a trio of fancy male steppers. The Lunatic Bakers, be the hilarious acrobatic act presented by the Joe Bonomy Troupe. Billy Van is one of the offerings of the program, and the Musical MacLaurens close the show.

"Valley of the Missing."

(At the Grand.)

Every scene staged and photographed upon Georgia spots of interest, principally Augusta and surrounding territory, the famous William Fox film, "From the Valley of the Missing," will be the offering at the Grand theater today and tomorrow. The story was written by Grace Miller White. The cast is a creditable one, headed by Jane Miller, supported by Clifford Bruce and Gladys Peck. The "Valley of the Missing" picture required three months to produce. Many familiar faces and figures on the Augusta and neighboring hamlets appear in the picture. For Wednesday and Thursday the Grand has booked Max Figman and Lolita Robertson in "Such a Charge," the most virile American story yet filmed.

REV. RICHARD STINSON PREACHES ON EASTER

Rev. Richard D. Stinson, principal of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, preached an Easter sermon Sunday at Allen Temple, Atlanta's largest negro church in the south. He related the history of the day, using Scriptural references to support his statements.

He told of the death of the Christ, how He was laid away in the tomb and how He was resurrected on the third day, which has since been observed as Easter. The word Easter, he related, is derived from the word "Eostra," which means literally, "Goddess of Spring," a day of celebration and of ministering to humanity.

FIGHT COMING TODAY OVER "JITNEY BUSES"

Daily Receipts of the Operators Exaggerated, According to J. T. Hazelton.

"Jitney bus" owners are preparing to storm the general council this afternoon and make a final effort to defeat the ordinance now pending and which provides for the regulation of the buses in Atlanta. They have engaged Attorney Thomas B. Felder to represent them.

Members of the Atlanta "Jitney Bus" club, composed of practically every owner in the city, will be present with scores of friends who have agreed to assist in their fight. The amended ordinance will be submitted to council and while it greatly modifies certain features the ordinance is not satisfactory to the club and they will contend that further modification is needed.

"The people have been misinformed about the income of a 'jitney bus,' said J. T. Hazelton, the "original operator." "The report was that our daily receipts were about $15. This is far wrong, as I can speak from experience. I took in $13 one day, but that was a hard work and was a record day.

"If the pending ordinance is adopted it will put the 'jitney buses' out of business and rob the public of special service that it has grown to like and we plan to give them if permitted to live, said Pearce, secretary of the Jitney Bus club.

Council today will consider the Pryor street paving matter and will receive a delegation from the Atlanta School Improvement association. It is expected, to discuss the condition of public school buildings.

DR. PROCTOR PREACHES ON "THE RESURRECTION"

"The Resurrection Before Death" was the subject of the Easter sermon at Friendship Baptist church, for colored, yesterday morning by Dr. H. H. Proctor, the pastor.

At night there was a concert by the school in charge of E. W. Martin, Jr., superintendent. The church was attended by a very large audience, after which the annual Easter offering from the circles of the church was presented.

WOMEN VOTE TUESDAY FOR MAYOR IN CHICAGO

Chicago, April 4.—Sunday was observed strictly today by candidates for mayor of Chicago, who closed an active campaign expected to be the largest recorded here.

On Tuesday women will vote for mayor in Chicago for the first time, and the total registration in the local vote have been made by William Hale Thompson, republican; Robert M. Sweitzer, democrat; Seymour Stedman, socialist, and John H. Hill, prohibitionist.

The scenes in the business centers last night were like those on New Year's eve. Street car traffic was halted by parades. Bands made music everywhere among the shouters, but no organized body of females participated in the demonstrations.

Nearly 500,000 women are registered, along with nearly 500,000 men.

WOMEN SAVE MANY LIVES IN STORM

Storm warnings sent out by the government weather bureau here saved many lives in the maritime provinces, leading to its name prostrated wires and miles of snow blockaded railroads, it was officially learned tonight no lives were lost, although fourteen vessels in three harbors off the New Brunswick and three harbors off the Massachusetts bay had narrow escapes from destruction, and were recovered by coast guard crews.

Snow was the most destructive in southeastern Massachusetts, cutting off communication with points south of Middleboro.

Plymouth, Bristol and Barnstable counties suffered severely with from one to a foot of snow. The wind reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour at Nantucket. In Boston the snowfall amounted to only a few inches.

The coast guard cutter Acushnet rendered assistance to the crew of the schooner George W. Wells, off Atlantic harbor. The coast guard cutter Androscoggin rode out the gale east of Cape Cod in the Delaware.

For the first time in more than twenty years the Boston, Providence and Fall River line steamer Commonwealth left southern New England on Easter day.

President Wilson's Easter.

Washington, April 4.—President Wilson observed Easter Sunday today by going to church in the morning and spending the rest of the day quietly at the white house. In accordance with an old custom, the white house grounds will be thrown open tomorrow to the children of the capital for Easter egg rolling.

Glasses Made at Hawkes

It bears that you take advantage of our long optical experience dating back to 1870.

Experience is the best teacher. It has taught us ear after year the exact methods of fitting glasses. It has taught us all the little refinements that go to make a comfortable and perfect pair of glasses, the writing of the proper lens formula, the proper shape and size of lenses, the style of the mountings, fit of the frames, etc.

This experience has produced for us one of the most modern lens grinding plants in the country—where all lenses are accurately ground, proved, checked and rechecked by expert workmen until they are perfect.

GLASSES MADE AT HAWKES simply guarantees to you the best glasses that can be produced.

We want to prove all the above to you.

The reasons for Certain-teed Roofing

Every buyer needs the proper assurance, when he pays for the best quality, that a second or third quality will not be delivered. The market is flooded with too many brands. Some manufacturers with poor facilities too often meet competition by cutting quality. Some wholesalers buy any old quality, put their labels on it, and say it is the best. Our Certain-teed label is backed by the written guarantee of the world's largest manufacturer of asphalt roofings. It gives each buyer the assurance wanted, and our unequalled facilities for manufacturing enable us to sell it at a very reasonable price.

These are the reasons for

Certain-teed Roofing

Come to our mills and see how we make the goods. We know that our Certain-teed Roofing is the best quality that we can make. It's the best quality that can be made to last and remain waterproof on the roof. It is made with that one purpose in view. We also make cheap grade, poor quality roofings to meet the demand for very temporary roofs, but the Certain-teed label goes only on our best quality, longest life product. It is the grade which carries our Company name and endorsement and guarantee—1-ply 5 years, 2-ply 10 years, 3-ply 15 years.

If you want the right quality and want to be sure you are getting what you pay for, insist on the Certain-teed label. The price is reasonable. No one can tell the quality of a piece of roofing by looking at it. The man is not living who can take three kinds of roofing of different quality and with any degree of accuracy the length of time each one will last on the roof. He cannot tell their relative values by looking at them. Why take the chance of guessing, when you can get the safest guarantee on the best quality goods at a reasonable price.

If for any reason you do not care for the highest quality—if you want a temporary roof, we also make goods sold at the lowest price on the market, because we have unequalled facilities, and are making approximately a third of the entire asphalt roofing and building papers of the whole country's output. Our facilities enable us to beat all competition on price goods as well as on Certain-teed quality.

The difference between the total cost of the goods, the freight, the laying, etc. between quality goods and price goods is insignificant. It is a much better policy to cut out the guessing and let the manufacturer of real responsibility insure you on all the vital points. He knows what he puts into the goods and what they will do—you can then insist upon getting everything as represented.

LET'S BOOST BUSINESS

Less Politics — More Prosperity

We have had enough starvation business—enough of political "cure-alls" of every stripe, with their assistance and busting—enough of politicians who promise economy and honesty in order to get into office and then practice upheaval of extravagance and then play for votes—or party rather than for principle and right, etc. The cost of living is not going down. Let's go after good times and make enough money to pay for the cost of living, whatever it may be. We don't want cheap living—we want good business and good times for everybody and if we all pull together we will get them.

Say, the game of the politician is to promise everything. Many of them ought to be prosecuted for fraud on account of the difference between what they promise and what they deliver. They're worse than the business man who, over-advertises the quality of his goods. Let the business interests, from the laborer to the superintendent, from the office boy to the president, from the lineman on the farm to the owner of the farm, remember that they have a common interest in good business and a square deal in business. Stop listening to the fakers and be better acquainted back into good times. It can be done. No more knockers and false prophets are wanted. We are going to be too busy to listen to any except those who promise "good business" legislation.

PIRATES TO PLAY CRACKERS TODAY

Hans Wagner and Other Stars at Ponce de Leon. Last Week of Exhibition Games.

The Pittsburg Pirates will be the attraction at Ponce de Leon park this afternoon and again on Tuesday afternoon, starting the last week of the exhibition season, which will end Saturday.

This is the first time in several seasons that the Pirates have come south for a series of games with the Crackers, and with the big league stars that they have on their roster, there ought to be big crowds out to the games.

Principal interest will, of course, center in Hans Wagner, the veteran shortstop of the Pirates, whom nine-tenths of the Atlanta fans will see in action for the first time. A character of national reputation, local fans are certain to seize this opportunity to see him perform. He has been moved over to guard the keystone this spring, Jimmy Viox going to third.

Sid Smith and Joe Conzelman, members of Cracker pennant winning team last year, will be with the Pirates, and will probably be the battery in one of the games against their old teammates.

Another familiar face will be that of Doc Johnston, the former Chattanooga and New Orleans first-sacker, who was sold to the Pirates by the Cleveland club the past winter, and who will take a fling at the first base hoodoo at Pirates field, Pittsburg, this season.

Then there is Babe Adams, George Gibson, Jim Viox, Dr. Carey, George McQuillan, Bob Harmon and a bunch of other well-known stars, with several youngsters of merit, some of whom may be left with the Crackers for further seasoning.

Manager Smith received a wire from the Pittsburg management last night announcing the batting order of the players who would appear against the Crackers today, and announcing his own. The team will line up at 3:15 o'clock today, as follows:

PITTSBURG	ATLANTA
Carey, lf	Bowden, lf

Havana, April 4.—With their training finished for the world's championship heavyweight battle Monday, Jack Johnson and Jess Willard spent today idling and resting, both took a stiff walk early in the morning.

Neither man is down to normal fighting weight, and as a consequence, both will forego liquids until after noon Monday. As a matter of fact, according to their statements, they have taken no liquids in the past two days.

Johnson spent part of his leisure hours packing up his belongings, preparatory to leaving Havana after the fight. He plans to sail for Martinique Wednesday, and will go from there direct to Paris, by South America, depending on the outcome of tomorrow's contest. His trainers today were said to tell the "fans" that he was in perfect condition, and was sure of winning. He seemed more concerned over the loss of a pair of new shoes than over his meeting with Willard in the ring.

Fight Starts at Noon.

Johnson says he will enter the ring at 225 pounds, but he looks about ten pounds heavier than that. The gong will sound for the fight at 12:30 o'clock (1:30 o'clock, Atlanta time), and Johnson expects to leave his quarters for the arena at noon.

Willard intends to take a brisk walk early tomorrow, and will leave for the fight ring at 11 o'clock. He shows no signs of worry. He said he expected to beat Johnson any day. Both negro fights. The length of the battle, he declared, depends on the champion's tactics. Both Willard's corner men say their man will be a sure winner if he can stand the gaff of Johnson during the first ten rounds.

Sunday would have been a great day for the fight as originally planned. It was cool, with a good breeze, and all the auspicious point to similar conditions tomorrow.

Sale Reaches $80,000.

There was a heavy sale of tickets throughout the day, and the fight promoters estimated the total sale so far at $80,000. They have printed 30,000 tickets to the value of $50,000 more tomorrow.

The betting is light, there being only a few hundreds of dollars actually in the stakeholders' hands, but much talk of wagering. The best offer of Johnson backers is 6 to 5. Willard men are trying to get 9 to 5. The real figure is four, but everybody is afraid to bet big money, as it seems impossible to figure the result.

There is little or no talk of a fake, but nobody seems sure of having a true contest. His Johnson's condition or Willard's fighting ability and power to stand punishment.

Willard promoters announce that they will pay Johnson $20,000, according to agreement, at 11 o'clock Monday morning at his quarters. They also hope to take Willard, if he wins, to Key West and northward Tuesday.

ROUTE OF HIGHWAY WILL BE DECIDED

and the completion of various sections of roads necessary to the entity of the highway.

Congress also will be memorialized to lend this project federal aid.

The federal bureau of good roads will be asked to supply three expert road engineers to assist the commission in mapping out the route of the highway.

The governors at the conference declared that the Dixie highway will do more for the uplifting and developing of the sections through which it will pass than any other means that could have been devised. The greatest single feature of the highway, while it will bring many tourists south and take many tourists north, will be one of the smallest benefits to be derived from the highway. While it will undoubtedly be apparently, will not stop with the mere development of the one central highway.

The willingness with which the delegates have represented the various competing sections for the highway route has exceeded their claims to the success of the entire route, indicates that the losers—for there must be losers—will be practically as loyal to the highway, affording side trips, and the tourists, and giving the citizens of the losing sections the benefit of access to the main highway.

Will Construct Roads.

The boosters of all these proposed lines of highway attending the convention that ample provision has been made for the construction of the roads in their respective counties. Many counties have already authorized bond issues and others are providing the money for road construction. In losing, as they will, the highway, the loss to the citizens already realizing the tremendous benefits of good roads, they will not be willing to see the money in county coffers and leave their roads unimproved.

Representatives of the state of Alabama, who lost in their fight to be represented by the governor, but governor's appointees, have indicated that, regardless of the route the highway will not pass through Alabama, the people of that state will build a highway connecting with Dixie Man's highway anyway.

Georgia is quite true of the several proposed routes through south Georgia, through Tennessee and Kentucky to Ohio.

Representing the various sections of the highway there were more than 1,000 delegates in Chattanooga on Saturday. The enthusiastic competition between the various delegations was probably greater than has been the case in witnessed at political conventions in Georgia.

Delegation Headquarters.

Every delegation had its headquarters, its flaming banners, its noisemakers, its band and its boosters. Robertson county, Tennessee, which is one of the strongest boosters for a highway by way of Nashville, Tenn., had its own band, as did also delegations from one or two Georgia towns.

Atlanta was there with 200 or more delegates, and was one of the big features of the day. In the parade, Atlanta's section formed the longest single delegation in line, which was practically one mile long.

The brilliant uniforms and the continuous shouting and singing of the band and drums of the Eagles' drum corps of Atlanta, and the thousands who lined the sidewalks.

In the parade the drum corps—and there were 15 of them—led the way for Atlanta section. Evan Allen and Wylie West led the delegation on foot.

Fred Houser, as usual, was the life of the party. With a white umbrella labeled "Atlanta" in his hand, he rushed hither and thither and down the line to the front of the band and the drum corps.

There were a number of "movie" men there with the cameras, and Houser always got busy when Freddie came by.

Following the parade, Atlanta entertained the conference at a banquet tendered another serenade while the crowd waited upon the streets. Evan Allen, Houser and Wylie West led the welcoming address of the chairman of the conference, and at the big banquet which closed the conference Saturday night.

Considerations.

Conspicuous in the Atlanta delegation were members of the Rotary club, of the Atlanta Athletic club and the Atlanta Automobile and Motorcycle association. These men did such boosting as Atlanta has not done for a long while.

To Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Automobile association, and to Reed, chairman of the committee from the automobile men's association, must go credit for the special Pullmans, as was at first the plan, it was found at the last minute that the delegation was so big a special train was necessary. This was provided for, however, in a special train of five coaches over the Southern railway, the Dixie Flyer, which was splendidly managed by Major W. H. Leahy.

The guests of the delegation headed by W. Tom Winn, of Fulton county commissioners, made a trip through the country by automobile, and found that the roads in good condition and interest in the highway movement keenly felt. They left Chattanooga Sunday morning about 10 o'clock and arrived in Atlanta Sunday night.

Chattanooga played host to the visiting thousands in fine style, and nothing was left to be done for the visitors that they could have had at home.

It was a great conference, splendidly handled and accomplishing great results.

LOCALS LOOKING MORE FORMIDABLE

The Present Personnel May Prove Sufficient Strength if the Weather Will Only Warm Up.

By Dick Jemison.

Last Monday we gave the Crackers the "Ghost of Christmas Past," bidding to be excused for another week before venturing any definite opinion as to what we thought of the team as a whole and in the main.

Now we can truthfully say that the present aggregation is more promising than they looked a week ago, with every indication of real strength, with a few more pitchers and with out any acquisitions that may be made any time.

But with a few days of weather like Sunday, a better line on every player and the team shaken down then the players can let themselves out to their fullest extent and we can get a real line on them.

How They Look Now.

Sizing up the team as it is at the present writing, we find that the outfield will do, behind the bat and on the mound the team is stronger than it has been in several seasons—with the exception of the infield, with its present personnel, gives indications of rounding into a representative quartet.

The Crackers will not have the hitting strength that the 1912 Cracker champions had, but they will run every fraster in the field and on the bases, a better defensive club, with better pitching and batting.

Most baseball men will tell you that the Crackers have the fast fielding club—one that was fast on the bases and supported by good pitching and could hit and with enough Ty Cobb hitting—than the best hitting aggregation in the business and not fast, but with every indication of being that kind of a club.

Hitting a Passenger.

Timon Bowden, Huck Eibel and Claude Potts found their batting eyes the past week, with the three fellows hitting anywhere near their normal stride, the hitting of the Crackers as a whole is not going to be weak. It may not be as strong as the Welsonmen, Jake Daubert, Zack Chapman, Bisland combination, but it will be strong enough to get better pitching and defense it will have.

The present personnel shows an ability to run, and after a few hits, their speed being a big asset, and with the addition of Bisland, a real baserunner, back, not many runs are needed. We point you to the 1909 and 1910 Cracker baserunners for proof of this.

Potts is much improved in every department, and as for Eibel he has become more familiar with the strange position at second base, being a shortstop and third baseman naturally, he is showing flashes of brilliancy and an ability to go to his right better, which he could not do before.

The infield base path is still waging, and it depends on what Stutz, Waldron and Tullos show during the coming two weeks whether any of them will be kept. Bill has two deals with big league clubs pending, Stutz, if Doc is to close for good infielders in the event the present crop fails.

The Pitching Staff.

Williams, Hiett, Allen and Pearson, the four new twirlers, have shown that they are good twirlers by their work to date, and from these four and the veterans, Degit, Dent, Thompson and Browning, Bill ought to be able to select a staff that will be the best the Crackers have had in several years.

Then there is Robertson, the Norcross boy, who is the most promising youngster that has tried out in these parts in many a day. Even if he does not make the team, and the chances are that will keep him from doing so will be lack of experience, wherever Manager Smith sends him, there'll be a long string attached, which will be yanked.

It has always been stated that good catchers make a good managing staff, if this is the case, then the Crackers' chances of having a good batting crew is even more enhanced, for the team is blessed with the three best catchers that have been in Southern league ball ever had at any one time in any system.

There is no reason to worry over the Crackers' not winning exhibition games. They count for naught, and were not in any condition to play until recently, and when they were able to cut loose a little and the pitchers able to "put something" on the ball, the fielders in the club was apparent.

Candidly, we believe that with the exception of a good third-baseman, the team, as it stands, will require a lot of beating in the Dixie series. Finishing in 1-2-3 in the Southern league pennant race this season, Mark that prediction.

HOUCK AND BROWN ARE DUE HERE TODAY

Mike Saul Has Also Arranged Classy Preliminaries for Thursday's Boxing.

Lew Houck, of Philadelphia, and George C. Knock 'Em Dead") Brown, the Greek middleweight, from Chicago, are due here today from other parts to finish training for their twenty-round bout at the Auditorium Thursday night.

Houck, the crack newsboy champion, who returned from Cincinnati with a decision over Al Reading Standard, throughout the middle west, has been signed to meet Battling Budd in the eight-round semi-windup, and the boys should attract nearly as much interest as the star bout.

The third scrap of the evening will be a ten-round set-to between Kid Underwood, Nashville, and Harry Diamond, the Memphis featherweight champion, as if Atlanta fans are to see the very best bout of the season Thursday night.

Promoter Mike Saul went to a big expense to land this mill.

Tickets for the bout are going rapidly. The popular price Mike is charging has made a big hit with local fans. The pasteboards can be purchased at the Spalding store and at Five Points, and Chess' place. Tickets sell for 50 cents to $2.50. Ringside seats will sell for $3. All the ringside seats have been elevated.

The Bijou box office will also be opened earlier than usual. Tickets will be ready to be purchased there tomorrow.

PREP LEAGUE TO OPEN 1915 SEASON ON NEXT FRIDAY

The prep baseball league will open the season Friday afternoon, three games being scheduled to be played. Six teams, the ones that were in the prep basketball league, will compose the baseball circuit.

The schedule will run from Friday until May 15, two weeks of play being provided for. Each club will play ten games. The games will be played on Tuesday and Friday of each week.

The opening games are as follows:

Boys' High at G. M. A.
Peacock at Tech High.
Marist at Donald Fraser.

The newest Alpine sport is coasting down mountain railways on specially designed cars which sometimes exceed a speed of 10 miles an hour.

PERFECT SCORES BY 22 MACHINES

Daring Motorcyclists Break Atlanta Sunday Afternoon and Will Return to Birmingham This Morning.

Twenty-two of the twenty-four entries in the 422-mile road race between Atlanta and Birmingham made a perfect day afternoon ahead of schedule and with perfect scores. John Akin, on a Harley-Davidson, finished at Stone Mountain, the last control, at 2:30 o'clock, and Ralph Hepburn, on a Reading-Standard, made the run. All of the twenty-four motors had checked in by 5:30 o'clock.

The riders reported the roads in good condition all along the route, no serious accidents occurred. The contestants will leave Atlanta this morning at 6 o'clock for the finish at Birmingham and upon reaching that city will be checked up by the referee.

Atlanta Men Do Well.

Many of the riders are Atlanta men, several of whom competed in the entrance contest last year and made good records. They are Harry Glenn, Ed Dallas, W. W. Bedinger, Frank Parmelee and Berry Cohen, all riding Indians; John Akin, Tex Richards, Burk Butler and R. R. Parrish, riding Harley-Davidson machines. J. Bryant, on a Thor.

From Birmingham were the following: William Spencer, William Degroat, Eddie French, Harley-Davidson machines; Fred Prator, on a Merkle; W. H. Gerhart, on a Reading-Standard; Bob Stubbs, George Berry, John McHale, Alabama; Birmingham Indians and John Warden, riding Indians; H. W. Nichols and Nichols-Gardner, and Rome, on Reading-Standard.

In leaving Atlanta this morning the contestants will leave one minute apart and will be required to make an even proximate speed of 29 miles an hour.

Will Get Loving Cup.

Each contestant has a credit with 1,000 points at the start of the run and is penalized for arriving late; the loss of a bolt, nut, part or accessory of any part of the machine. The individual who finishes with the highest score, or the highest score will receive a silver loving cup. The team of three making

WANT LOCKER CLUBS AND SALOONS CLOSED

Central Baptist Church Makes Appeal to the General Assembly of Georgia.

When William D. Upshaw put the question at the Central Baptist church last night several hundred people held up their hands and voted unanimously a resolution to ask all the newspapers in Georgia to discontinue the publication of whisky advertisements and to ask the next session of the Georgia general assembly to close every saloon and locker club in the state.

Such was the climactic close of a rousing prohibition meeting, where Mr. Upshaw, Robert A. Broyles and W. S. Witham delivered scathing attacks upon the newspapers and church members for countenancing the sale of liquor in Atlanta.

Defends the Police.

Mr. Broyles criticised citizens who criticise the police department as being inefficient and declared that the newspapers in printing stories tending to criticise the police department are not attempting to produce the real news of the situation, but are blinding the issue, which, he declared, is the policy of the police in compelling locker clubs to obey the law.

Mr. Witham, who presided over the meeting, opened the meeting by brandishing a bundle of whisky advertisements.

"These," he said, "I clipped from the Atlanta newspapers this morning.

During Mr. Witham's remarks, which left neither hide nor hair on anybody favoring whisky, were interspersed with characteristic humorous anecdotes which kept his hearers in a gale of laughter.

Mr. Witham declared that he had just returned from Miami, Fla., where prohibition is enforced with the result that everybody is prosperous and happy.

"Even the Elks' club in Miami," he said, "has declared that its conscience has hurt it until it will not allow liquor to be sold or given away within the doors of its home again."

Dr. Broyles Speaks.

Mr. Witham introduced Mr. Broyles, saying:

"You are not properly informed by the newspapers," said Mr. Broyles, "the press can be a great power for good and a great power for evil. Just now they seem to be giving you a mixture.

"I picked up a daily newspaper just before yesterday, and on the front page I saw a big picture of a convict who had been released from the Atlanta federal prison and who had spent sixteen years in there. The story about this convict was heralded in big black headlines. Inside in print so small you almost had to use a microscope to read, and in a position where your chances of finding it were slim, was a story about a great minister who is coming here to preach.

In touching upon the recent criticisms of the police department, citizens, Mr. Broyles upheld the police department. He pointed out that one of the alleged criminals for whom rewards mentioned had been captured by the police. He also pointed out that, within the last year the police have made more than 4,000 arrests.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers was in the audience.

Mr. Broyles pointed out that 72 per cent of the area of the United States is without saloons. He outlined the status of prohibition in the Supreme federal prohibition act and predicted ultimate success for it. He explained that Congressman Adamson, of Georgia, spoke against the measure on the ground of interference with states rights, but when he found himself being congratulated only by liquor dealers, experienced a change of mind and voted for the measure.

He presented statistics of Kansas showing the great decrease in illiteracy and increase in wealth, health and happiness resultant from prohibition, and many other statistics showing the ill effects of liquor and the benefits of prohibition.

Scores the Churches.

Mr. Witham, introducing Mr. Upshaw, declared that the churches of Atlanta are doing more to keep liquor here than any other institution.

"Get your Baptist deacons, your Presbyterian elders, your Methodist stewards and all the rest of the church officials either out of the church or out of the locker clubs, and you will see the clubs closing," he said.

Illustrative of his arguments he sang a little song about the two ballots that were in the ballot box and mailed so much alike that you couldn't tell them apart, but:

"One was cast by a jolly old brewer
"And one by a Sunday school man."

Mr. Upshaw, in a brief talk, declared that he and Mr. Broyles and Mr. Witham were "married together and would never get a divorce from each other until Georgia is really a prohibition state from the mountains to the sea."

He declared that there are three reasons why people support liquor—money, politics and liquor.

SALE OF SINGLE SEATS BEGINS THIS MORNING

Big Rush of Opera Patrons Expected by Grand Opera Management.

The sale of single seats for this year's grand opera week will begin this morning.

Tickets are on sale at the store of the Cable company, on Broad street, and Phillips & Crew, on Peachtree street. These are the agents for single seats, which has been applied annually to this sale by the way, is a misnomer, as does not mean the sale of a ticket for one seat. It means the sale of any number of seats for one performance, being a generic term used to distinguish this sale from the sale of season tickets, which includes all performances.

The prices of tickets for single performances are as follows:

Boxes, $20 and $15.
Loges, $6.
Dress circle, $2.50, $1 and $5.
Balcony, $1, $.75 and $.50.

It is expected that the demand for seats for single performances this year will be very great.

This year's list of operas includes probably the most pretentious opera ever offered to Atlanta in any one season.

The season opens with Meyerbeer's wonderful opera, "The Huguenots," introducing for the first time Rosina Galli, the Metropolitan's premiere dancer, and the most magnificent ensemble ballet.

Tuesday matinee will consist of one of Atlanta's greatest favorites, "Tales of Hoffman," introducing the Barcarolle, which is universally known as a music-lovers' delight.

Wednesday night's performance will be the magnificent presentation of "Carmen," with Geraldine Farrar in the title role, a treat for which Atlanta has patiently waited for two years.

Thursday matinee will be "Rigoletto," the music of which alone has made it a great favorite. In Atlanta "Woman Is Fickle" and the great quartet from this opera are a well known as "Dixie."

Friday night's performance will be "The Love of the Three Kings," which has so taken New York by storm.

Mozart's magnificent "Magic Flute" at the Saturday matinee will present a cast of individual splendor, such as has never been produced upon the American world save in the first performance of this same opera in New York.

The opera season will close Saturday night with "Madame Sans-Gene," Giordano's romantic opera which depicts the fortunes of an humble laundress, who rose to the eminence of a duchess under the regime of Napoleon.

TRADE IN STOCKS IS AGAIN NORMAL

March Business Rose Well Above the Corresponding Month Last Year — Final Prices Highest Since War.

New York, April 4.—Growing recognition of the safeguards erected by this country against the financial effects of the war was registered in the week's stock market. Abolition of minimum prices marked the re-establishment of a really free and open market. Expanded volume of dealings further reflected the return of normal conditions. Both in stocks and bonds, the business features of the corresponding month last year, the final day of the month rising to the maximum of the year, values are since the outbreak of the war. Speculative caution, however, was somewhat prompted the realizing which resulted in the irregularity at the week-end.

The advantage to our foreign trade of the necessities of belligerents continued to manifest itself. War orders for steel in the last two weeks were the largest since the foreign floods gathered. The $50,000,000 one year credit arranged in Germany and New York bankers, an equal amount for Russia and twice as much for England, to finance purchases of materials here.

Renewed weakness of foreign exchange in the face of these operations indicated the further pressure of the same causes. Subsidence of expectation of early peace was a natural consequence. A sharp expansion in merchandise imports was another effect of the pressure in foreign exchange. Rises in prices of stocks also brought some addition to selling.

As a contrast to foreign loans, new financing of home corporations in March fell to $5,000,000, compared with $24,000,000 in the preceding month. The change is not unwelcome. Better net returns for railroads are freely announced, and a better season for buying. March gross returns are unsatisfactory. Record acreage for wheat is estimated, with drastic reduction of cotton.

Diplomatic exchanges over neutral rights and Japan's steps in China are lighted for possibilities of anxiety. The Mexican situation also came in for consideration.

NORTHER AT COLON DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Panama, April 4.—A severe norther visited Colon last night, doing much damage to the west breakwater, which was completed last year at a cost of $1,000,000. Hundred of feet of the east breakwater, which had suffered to the extent of nearly $500,000 damage in a similar storm two years ago.

The wind blew sixty miles an hour and for a time it was feared the monumental survey yacht Carnegie, owned by the Carnegie institute of Washington, would break ashore. Other vessels, however, assisted the Carnegie and she was able to ride out the gale safely.

POLICE CHIEF KILLED BY WHISKY PEDDLER

Lewisburg, W. Va., April 4.—Intense excitement prevails at Ronceverte, near here, following the killing late yesterday afternoon in a saloon there by police of Ronceverte, by John Stuart, a negro. Hundred of feet of the east breakwater, which had suffered to the extent of nearly $500,000 damage in a West Virginia, and an outbreak of lynching should Stuart be captured is feared, according to reports received here. Stuart was arrested on a charge of peddling whisky. He shot Shires while being taken to jail. A report from Ronceverte says that the negro has been surrounded in a wood near there.

According to Andrew Furuseth, president of the International seamen's union, the average wages of seamen the world over have been stationary the last seventy years.

Trade Features of Week Are Generally Optimistic

Big Advance in Cotton Has Been a Great Help to the South, Declares Dun's Report.

Dun's report says:

Domestic trade gains slowly, but war orders and foreign exports continue very heavy, and in all branches of business, and in all sections, there is a distinct growth of confidence. The big advance in cotton is a great relief to every depression in the south, while in the west high prices for farm products have further confirmed activity and in spite of low temperature in the winter belt the great section, crop prospects are regarded as favorable. A notable expansion of stock exchange activity is a significant expression, both of the improving business conditions and of the removal of financial fears. The action in removing all restrictions upon stock trading means a complete return to normal conditions, and is an other notable proof of expanding financial power. Bank clearings, commercial failures and other statistics of business, however, still reveal the lingering effects of the nervousness of depression that was produced by the war, but it is significant that these indices of trade activity are growing better month by month, so that the present unsatisfactory condition is rather than tendencies for the future.

Money Very Easy.

Money is very easy, but this is due in large part to the cessation of new financing of corporate undertakings; it makes, however, for enormous power for quick response when trade fully sets in. It is noteworthy that American bankers are not only absorbing the governmental war loans, but cannot be satisfied by people of several belligerent nations. The wastes of the European conflict are on a world scale, and, on the other hand, the war reveals unexpected resources of hidden wealth, which will contribute to the recovery from the disaster, particularly in the neutral countries. The more rapid than was at first feared. Export amount in the latest week to $29,152,929 from New York, as compared with $19,689,614 of imports, making a trade balance of over $9,000,000 in a single week—at one port alone. In iron and steel, the European demands are increasing so largely that they are responsible for further expansion in the output of the Atlantic and domestic business, while not so active, is never-theless improving. Reports from the textile markets are encouraging, and in most lines, there is a broader demand and added firmness. Retail distribution appears to be more active, though Easter buying has not been particularly. The outlook for improvement in foreign trade is flattering. Favorable spring weather is beneficial for the lumber and other building supply trades, although building operations are much below those of last year, in all lines stocks are low.

BANK CLEARINGS IN UNITED STATES FOR THE PAST WEEK

Bank clearings in the United States for the past week ending April 1, as reported by Bradstreet's to Dun's Review, aggregate $3,004,557,000, against $2,836,642,000 the previous week and $3,412,000,000 in this week last year. Canadian clearings aggregate $174,347,000, as against $177,298,000 week before last and $142,782,000 in this week last year. Condition of Treasury.

Washington, April 4.—The condition of the United States treasury at the close of business yesterday was:

Net balance in general fund, $30,477,540.

Total receipts, $1,765,865.
Total payments, $2,767,532.

The deficit this fiscal year is $92,168,262, against a deficit of $28,037,589 last year, exclusive of Panama canal and public debt transactions.

VOTE ON THE SALOONS BY MICHIGAN COUNTIES

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—A light state election vote tomorrow, except in sixteen counties where the local option issue is at stake, was predicted tonight. The ticket includes two supreme court justices, two university regents, one member of the state board of agriculture, a superintendent of public instruction and one member of the state board of education.

Of the sixteen counties voting on the saloon question, four are now "dry."

Make State and County Tax Returns now. Books close April 30.

Bradstreet Points Out Progress in Distributive Trade and Increased Activity in Industrial Lines.

Bradstreet's report says:

Progress in distributive trade, notwithstanding the existence of some retarding factors, shows fair operations in industrial lines, large foreign buying of steel, relatively heavy trading in stocks, remarkably heavy exports of wheat, good crop advices, and evidences of a disposition to embark in new enterprises, are the prominent factors in this week's news. Jobbers' demands have enlarged retail trade and expanded jobbing business, but on the other hand, cold weather and poor country roads have prevented free and extended buying. In the south and the northwest the situation is particularly backward, but in the east sentiment is decidedly active and optimistic, is more favorable, in the northwest continued cool weather retards trade and crop preparations, but business is looking up, though still attended by forced economization, and in the west the broad tendency is to pull toward improvement.

Idleness Decreased.

Idleness has decreased—the problem of unemployment in the larger cities does not figure so much. Iron furnace operations in the hard coal and copper mines have been increased, steel mills are working at a fairly good rate, automobile plants are in full swing, "farming out" of foreign orders for machine tools insures activity for plants not originally favored by such orders, and there are signs of improvement in lumber at the south, in certain lines stimulated by foreign orders, and in the middle west is common. Collections have improved a little, though clearings reflect an increase over last week, but comparison with the like week one and two years ago reveals moderate decreases. It is probable, however, that the value of bank clearings as a trade gauge is vitiated to some extent through the workings of the federal reserve system. Business failures are not as numerous as last week, which with the fall scored the preceding week, suggests that the strain is easing. Money is cheap, investment demand is heavy and the flotation of foreign loans attracts attention.

267,000 TONS OF RAILS WERE BOOKED IN MARCH

New York, April 4.—The Erie Railroad company has ordered 75,000 tons of rails, of which 21,000 tons will be rolled by the Steel Corporation company in April, May and June, 30,000 tons by the Buffalo mill and 5,000 tons by the Bethlehem Steel company in April, May and June. The Oklahoma and Gulf ordered 2,000 tons from the Tennessee company, and miscellaneous orders, with slight sections, amounted to 3,000 tons, making the total rail orders booked in March 267,000 tons.

The car shops and locomotive works experienced another lean week, but the locomotive builders, as well as the car manufacturers, have turned with alacrity to shrapnel orders for export and, in turn, need about 50,000 tons of steel bars. In consequence there are likely to be fewer cancellations of previous order sheets sharp, all qualified buyers for the railroad equipment manufacturers.

French interests have bought 100,000 tons more round bars in this country and supplementary orders for plates, shapes and sheets amounted to 50,000 tons. Domestic merchant interests also placed additional substantial miscellaneous orders for export. March export sales aggregated 600,000 tons, including bars for cover shrapnel forged in the country. Great Britain, France and Russia are still negotiating for rails.

Steel building orders during the week were small, but the March structural bookings reached 106,000 tons. The United States Steel corporation is now operating over 72 per cent total capacity. Shipments in March gained nearly 10 per cent, while new orders decreased about 7 per cent, indicating a small change in mill-in orders. Southern blast furnaces sold 100,000 tons of foundry iron at $9.25 Birmingham for the first today. Insurance estimated at $75,000. The blaze started in the engine room and spread rapidly.

Marble Mill Burned.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 4.—The Tennessee Producers' Marble company's mill was damaged to the extent of $100,000 by fire today. Insurance estimated at $75,000. The blaze started in the engine room and spread rapidly.

Preference

"Every well-dressed man has decided opinions as to color, fabric and pattern. Most men we make $35 business suits for have well defined ideas of what they want when they open our front door. It's a rare case when we have not the very thing—then we manage to get it."

Jack is certainly the most particular man I ever saw when it comes to getting for a customer just what he (the customer) wants.

The Alleged Oath of the Knights of Columbus.

SPEECH
OF
HON. WILLIAM KETTNER
OF CALIFORNIA,
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
January 29, 1915.

Mr. KETTNER. Mr. Chairman, in this morning's mail I received a pamphlet from California dealing with a subject that has engrossed my attention for some time past. The pamphlet is issued by prominent citizens of my State, all Free Masons, and active in that fraternal order.

These four men, than whom none stand higher for probity and honor in the State of California, and who are known throughout the State for their adherence to the highest standards of personal integrity, have just made a report on the ceremonies and ritual of the Knights of Columbus.

As a thirty-third degree Mason and a working member of the Masonic order, I esteem it a privilege to present this report of these distinguished and fair-minded men on a subject which has been grossly misrepresented, and has caused religious bitterness and strife. I believe in justice and fair play. In the Sixty-second Congress the Committee on Elections No. 1, in a certain contested election case, incorporated in their report (H. Rept. No. 1523) an alleged oath or obligation of the Knights of Columbus, the publication of the said alleged oath being in connection with a notice of my election in this body. This alleged oath, which can be found in the bound Congressional Record of the Sixty-second Congress, third session, page 2216, was used to the detriment of the Knights of Columbus, whose critics pointed to the publication in the Congressional Record of the alleged oath as sort of proof of its genuineness. The alleged oath having found publication in the Congressional Record, I think it fair that this report be printed with the oath of the Knights of Columbus by this distinguished Masonic committee should likewise be given the same prominence.

LOS ANGELES INVESTIGATION.

The following letters need no explanation:

Hon. Paul J. McCormick,
Superior Court House, Los Angeles.

My Dear Judge: I take pleasure in handing you herewith the findings of the committee of Free Masons to whom was exhibited the ceremonials and pledges of the Order of Knights of Columbus.

I am very glad that I have been able, in a measure, to secure the refutation of a slanderous lie that has been widely circulated and which has been disseminated in many cases by well meaning, credulous and deluded persons.

I shall see to it that this report has wide circulation among Masons, and you may rest it in any way you deem best to bring about an understanding of the truth among men who, above all controversies and contentions, desire to know and to follow that which is right and true.

Yours, cordially,
W. R. HERVEY.

October 9, 1914.

We hereby certify that by authority of the highest officer of the Knights of Columbus in the State of California, who acted under instructions from the supreme officer of the United States, we were furnished a complete copy of all the work, ceremonies and pledges used by the order, and that we carefully read, discussed, and examined the same. We found that while the order is in no sense a secret association, it is an oath-bound organization, and that its ceremonies are comprised in four degrees, which are intended to teach and inculcate principles that lie at the foundation of every good religious and free State. Our examination of these ceremonials and obligations was made primarily for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not a certain alleged oath of the Knights of Columbus, which had been printed in a newspaper, was in fact used by the order, and whether if it was not used, such oath, obligation or pledge was of such a character as would be offensive to Protestants or Masons, or those who are engaged in circulating a document of peculiar indecency and revolting character. We found that neither the alleged oath nor any oath or pledge bearing the remotest resemblance thereto in matter, manner, spirit or purpose is used or forms a part of the ceremonies, degree of the Knights of Columbus. The alleged oath is scurrilous, wicked, and libelous, and must be the invention of an unscrupulous enemy. We further find that the order of Knights of Columbus, as shown by its ritual, is devoted to the highest principles, charity, and patriotism. There is no propaganda proposed or taught against Protestants or Masons or persons not of Catholic faith. Indeed, Protestants or Masons are not referred to directly or indirectly in the ceremonials and pledges. The ceremonial of the order teaches a high and noble patriotism, instills a love of country, inculcates a reverence for law and order, urges the conscientious and impartial performance of civic duty, and holds up the Constitution of our country as the sacred and most precious possession of a knight of the order. We can find nothing in the entire ceremonials of the order that to our minds could be objected to by any person.
